Era of the Warren Court Ends

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Warren Earl Burger was sworn in as chief justice of the United States today in a Supreme Court ceremony at which President Nixon paid high tribute to retiring Earl Warren and his 16-year court of leadership.

Warren, in his last act as chief justice, administered two oaths of office to the 61-year-old Burger in a ceremony in the Supreme Court room.

Just before the swearing-in, in a precedent-setting address to the court, Nixon praised Warren for his "dignity, example and fairness."

"He has helped keep America on the path of continuity and change which is so essential for our progress," the President said. "This nation owes a debt of gratitude to the chief justice for his example."

Nixon spoke about 10 minutes, terming Warren's tenure on the court as "years of greater change in America than any in our history."

As he took on the duties first assigned to John Jay in 1789, Burger assumed leadership of a court that has expanded its influence from a quiet third arm of the government in the early days of the republic to a force which has influenced almost every aspect of American life, particularly during Warren's tenure.

In assuming his post as head of the federal judiciary, the Minnesota-born Burger promised to bear true faith and allegiance to the constitution and to "administer justice without respect to persons." He had taken the same oaths when he became a member of the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia in 1956.

Immediately following the swearing in the President and Mrs. Nixon joined members of the court at a reception in a nearby room for Burger who became the nation's 15th chief justice.

Warren, apparently moved by the unprecedented appearance of the President before the court to pay him tribute, said

Nixon's words were "most generous and I greatly appreciate it."

In a light-hearted comment, the President remarked that "there is only one ordeal more challenging than a presidential press conference and that is to appear before the Supreme Court."

In his brief remarks responding to the President's tribute, Warren also noted the continuity to the court's 180-year history.

Warren said "that in on sense at least the court is in a position similar to that of the presidency—it speaks the last word in government affairs."

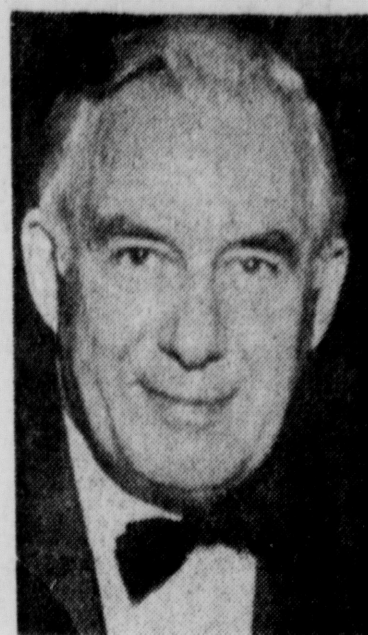

He concluded: We have no constituency. We serve the public interest as we see it—guided only by the constitution and our consciences."

The ceremony took place in the Supreme Court room before about 500 invited guests.

As Burger assumed his place in the black chair at the center of the high mahogany bench, he was greeted by a handshake from the court's senior members, who will sit on each side of him—Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas.

Today was the final session of the Warren Court's final term and other business was cut to the bone to put the spotlight on Burger, a one-time Minnesota farmboy from St. Paul, who was confirmed by the Senate on June 9 by a vote of 74-3.

Cong Military Plan Disclosed

Beret Post Under Siege

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese forces shelled the U.S. Green Beret camp at Ben Het today for the 20th time this month and sent two waves of infantry against its outposts, their siege unchecked by a million pounds of U.S. bombs dropped in 24 hours.

The South Vietnamese mercenaries who man the outposts near the vital Central Highlands camp hurled back the ground attacks, killing 34 North Vietnamese against "light" casualties in their own ranks, military spokesmen said.

The attacks were preceded by a barrage of tear gas, mortar and artillery shells and recoilless rifle fire into the outposts on either side of the camp and into the main base position itself.

Seven civilian dependents of the Vietnamese mercenaries, who defend the camp under Green Beret leadership, were wounded. There were no U.S. casualties.

The renewed pressure on Ben Het camp, which commands infiltration routes from nearby Laos and Cambodia into the Central Highlands 285 miles northeast of Saigon, followed all-day bombing raids around it Sunday.

It came as U.S. military sources in Saigon disclosed the contents of a captured Viet Cong document that said the Communists have given up hope for an all-out military victory in Vietnam. The document directed Red commanders to aim their war effort at hastening an early withdrawal of U.S. troops and pressuring the government to form a coalition government.

The sources also said intelligence indicated the Reds will try to seize one or two of Vietnam's border province capitals to set up headquarters for their recently announced "provisional government."

Communist gunners shelled 30 bases and towns throughout the country overnight but took only light or negligible casualties at all targets.

Viet Cong fired 100 rounds of mortar and recoilless rifle fire into U.S. American division base camp near Duc Pho 307 miles northeast of Saigon, and launched a ground attack that saw a few attackers break through the perimeter. One Communist was killed and eight Americans wounded by the shelling.

Other battlefields across Vietnam were so quiet Sunday that the regular U.S. briefing officer did not attend the daily session for newsmen.

The only action involving U.S. troops apart from Ben Het Sunday saw 25th Infantry Division GIs kill 22 guerrillas in a firefight 24 miles northwest of Saigon. U.S. losses were one killed and five wounded.

Mekong Sweep
South Vietnamese troops riding armored personnel carriers on a sweep of the southern Mekong Delta reported killing 98 Red soldiers 116 miles southwest of the capital. Two government troops were killed and two wounded.

The Communists have shelled the Ben Het Special Forces camp nearly every night for three weeks. The outpost, 285 miles northeast of Saigon, commands a network of infiltration trails from both Laos and Cambodia.

The camp is defended principally by civilian irregular defense group (CIDG) units, paid and led by the Green Berets.

U.S. B32s attempted to break the siege with six raids Sunday, dropping more than a million pounds of bombs on gunnery positions within three miles of the camp.

Following those raids Sunday night, the Reds poured another 65 rounds of mixed mortar, artillery and recoilless rifle fire. Five of the mortar rounds carried in charges of tear gas, U.S. spokesmen said.

Will It Be Judge Klein or McCardle?

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
Ulster County Democratic committeemen will meet tonight at the municipal auditorium on Broadway and elect one of two men chairman to replace retiring chairman, Dr. Gerald P. Gorman.

Aaron E. Klein is pitted against James T. McCardle for the two-year term as county leader. Both men are veteran Democrats and have held high office in the party.

89 Vacancies
There is some question as to exactly how many committeemen will be voting tonight. There are some 260 members to the full committee. However, there are presently 89 vacancies among nine towns.

Reportedly, both candidates have agreed to the seating of 89 carryover committeemen from last year under the state ruling that a man is a committeeman until his successor is elected.

Klein's name will be placed in nomination by County Sheriff William B. Martin with the first second by City Chairman Thomas R. Lyle.

McCardle will be nominated by Woodstock Town Chairman John Bonilla with the second by Walter Houle, Ulster Town chairman.

Klein, a former city judge, is currently Kingston's corporation counsel. He was county chairman from 1963 to 1967 but was defeated for reelection by Dr. Gorman two years ago.

McCardle, a state committeeman, served on the board of supervisors from 1958-1963. He, like Klein, is a former city chairman.

Dr. Gorman who is not seeking reelection, leaves a mixed record. In the city of Kingston the party has never been stronger. The Democrats hold 15 of 16 city elected offices including the positions of mayor, alderman-at-large, judge and 12 of 13 aldermanic seats.

However, the party's record in the county has been quite the opposite where the Democrats hold only five of 33 legislative seats and the sheriff's office.

Tonight's voting will be by machine and is expected to be close. Both men have campaigned vigorously for the office they are seeking and have publicly presented their views on a wide variety of party subjects.

Both are in favor of greater involvement of women and youth in the party. "They are a ready resource for specific types of help," Klein says. "They are the bright young people standing in the wings ready to do the necessary work," McCardle says.

Both men have advocated better public relations by the party. Klein wants a fulltime public relations man to keep the party and the public informed. McCardle calls for the establishment of a Democratic headquarters with a full time staff.

The two appear to agree that a broader based executive committee is needed. McCardle suggests an executive committee of 54 persons, one representative for each of the county's 33 legislative districts and each of the 21 town chairmen.

Klein suggests that the executive committee should meet monthly in various parts of the county.

The two, for the most part, have conducted constructive campaigns with little public reference to mistakes of the party under past leadership.

In addition to electing a chairman, the committeemen will also elect a vice-chairman. Mrs. Rose Hogan, the incumbent, is running unopposed.

Somewhere Over Rainbow -It All Ends for Judy

LONDON (UPI)—The yellow brick road led to torment and despair and loneliness for Judy Garland. The beautiful colors of her rainbow faded with the years. She was found dead in her bathroom Sunday.

Scotland Yard ruled out foul play—the body was unmarked—and planned an autopsy later today. A Yard spokesman said it could have been from natural causes. She was 47.

Miss Garland in 1967 provided, in effect, her own epitaph: "When you have lived the life I've lived, when you have loved and suffered and been madly happy and desperately sad—well, that's when you realize that you'll never be able to set it all down... maybe you'd rather die first."

The man with whom she said she had finally found happiness, Mickey Deans, found Miss Garland's body at 11 a.m. Sunday on the floor of her bathroom at 4 Cadogan Lane. "This is it. For the first time in my life, I am really happy," she had said on marrying Deans, her fifth husband, three months ago. "Finally, finally, I am loved."

Investigators found no suicide note in the two-story home. They did not rule out an accidental overdose of medication. A doctor who treated the singer-actress frequently in her bouts with drugs and alcohol, Philippe Roberge, a show business friend, had spent she had cirrhosis of the liver and "how she managed to live this long, I just don't know." Miss Garland, Deans and Roberge, a show business friend, had spent Saturday night at the Deans home eating and watching television. Friends described the singer in good spirits.

It was Miss Garland's portrayal of Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," walking the yellow brick road and singing "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," that made her famous at 17.

She played in 34 movies to the adulation of millions of diehard fans who overlooked her roughening voice and her tardiness to concerts in later years. Sometimes she didn't show up at all.

Those who knew her best of all, her children, said they drew comfort from the happiness she had brought to millions of people.

"The only thing that really comforts us now is the thought that nothing can destroy our love or disturb the legend that she created. To us, that always was and always will be a beautiful thing."

A family spokesman released the statement in New York on behalf of her daughter, singer Liza Minelli, 23, and her children by marriage to Sidney Luft—Joey Luft, 14, and Lorna Luft, 16.

HER GREATEST — Judy gained stardom in the 1934 movie, "The Wizard of Oz," which she made when she was 12. Here, in a scene from the movie, she oils the joints of the Tin Woodman, played by Jack Haley, as the Scarecrow, acted by Ray Bolger, watches. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

$50,000 Library Aid For Valley Colleges

POUGHKEEPSIE
A federal grant of $50,000 has been awarded to the Southeastern New York Library Resources Council on behalf of nine college libraries in the Hudson Valley.

Bard, Paltz, UCCC
Vassar College, Poughkeepsie; Marist College, Poughkeepsie; Mount Saint Mary, Newburgh; Saint Thomas Aquinas College, Sparkill; Rockland Community College, Suffern; Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson; the State University of New York College at New Paltz; Bennett College, Millbrook and Ulster Community College, Stone Ridge participated in the Council's application to the United States Office of Education under the terms of the Higher Education Act.

Funds will be used to acquire books and other library materials for the colleges so as to strengthen the information resources of the area. Applicants were required to present proofs of regional planning and services for cooperative library endeavors, and only recognized groups of institutions could apply. The Southeastern New York Library Resources Council has prepared and published comprehensive catalogs of the serial holdings in the libraries of the Hudson Valley, a catalog of the reserved book collections in college libraries, and directories of area libraries. The Council also maintains regular delivery schedules for the li-

Moon Landing Success Seen Near 100 Per Cent

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The flight director says he would consider next month's Apollo 11 mission a success if Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin merely land on the moon and return without stepping on its surface.

Clifford E. Charlesworth said in a weekend interview in Houston he thinks the chances are "pretty close" to 100 per cent the pilots will be able to achieve the landing while fellow astronaut Michael Collins orbits overhead.

The three pilots took Sunday off, but more grueling training was on their agenda today at the Cape Kennedy moonport.

Technicians at the oceanside launch pad hoped to complete the tedious five day spacecraft fueling operation tonight.

The next and last major test facing Apollo 11 is a weeklong countdown rehearsal scheduled to begin Wednesday. Once that is completed, engineers will be able to start final preparations for the July 16 launch.

Charlesworth said if Armstrong and Aldrin get the opportunity to leave their landing craft to collect moon rocks and deploy three scientific experiments he will consider that an added dividend.

DOWNTOWN CRASH — Homeowners view wreckage of two cars in early morning accident on Delaware Avenue. Car operated by Susanna V. Bolding, 20, of Ulster Park was traveling east on Delaware Avenue when she apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. Her auto collided with a parked car, which was then forced backwards into two other cars parked on the side of the road. A passenger in the auto, Jane Larsen, 18, of Sawkill Trailer Park, is listed in fair condition at Benedictine Hospital with a fractured upper jaw. Bolding and another passenger were treated and released. (Freeman photo by Fitzgerald).

Traffic Mishaps Mar Weekend; Marlboro Youth Dies in Crash

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON A rash of traffic accidents occurred on Ulster County highways over the week-end, sending more than 20 persons to area hospitals. Three were no fatalities listed in the county, however, and none of the injured were serious.

A triple fatality in Columbia County early Saturday morning marred the first weekend of summer. Three youths from Pittsfield, Mass., were killed in the community of New Lebanon when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve on Route 22. The car left the highway and slammed into two trees.

17-Year-Old Killed
A 17-year-old Marlboro youth was killed Sunday when his auto crashed into a tree off River Road in Newburgh. Joseph McDonald, 17, failed to negotiate a curve and his auto went out of control and left the highway. A passenger in the car, Edward Chum, 22, of Newburgh is listed in serious condition at St. Luke's Hospital.

Fourteen persons received minor injuries late Sunday afternoon when the bus in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve on Upper Cherrytown Road near the Peg Leg Bates Country Club in Kerhonkson.

According to state police from the Ellenville barracks, the bus was carrying a group of persons from the New York City area to the country club. The vehicle left the road and entered a ditch.

Most of the persons complained of whiplash and were taken to Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals by ambulance services from Ellenville and Kerhonkson. All were released.

The driver of the bus, Robert Tetla of Ridgewood, N. J., was issued a summons by state police for speed not reasonable or prudent.

Power from New Paltz to Highland was cut off for three hours early Monday morning when a car operated by an 18-year-old New Paltz youth went out of control on the Old New Paltz Road and struck guide wires supporting a utility pole.

Went Off Road
State police report that David Bantham was traveling west on the road when he failed to negotiate a right hand curve. His car went off the side of the road and struck the wires supporting a high tension pole. Four wires on the pole were disconnected, causing the blackout. Crews from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., repaired the damage and restored power at 4:45 a. m.

Bantham, arrested for driving while intoxicated, was arraigned before Town of New Paltz Justice Rexford Schneider. He was released in the custody of his parents.

Late Sunday afternoon Helmut Salewski, 31, of Olivebridge sustained a fractured right collarbone when she swerved her auto to avoid hitting a deer.

went off the road and struck a tree on Samsonville Road in the Town of Olive. She was treated at Kingston Hospital and released.

Three persons received minor injuries in a two-car crash on Route 209 in the Town of Hurley late Saturday night. Autos operated by Francis Barth, 48, of Flushing and Joseph Kruszenski, 61, of Ellenville were traveling south on the highway when the accident occurred. Kruszenski was apparently attempting to pass the Barth vehicle when the latter started to make a left hand turn. Barth, Kruszenski and his wife, Guletta, were all treated at Kingston Hospital and later released.

The Theme in Woodstock -- How to Get Our Town Back

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK "Remember how they zapped North Dakota! Remember how they ruined Fort Lauderdale! Don't let them do this to Woodstock. Protest!"

So read the handbills passed out to the slightly more than 100 people attending a public meeting at the Woodstock home of Mrs. John Egan Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Egan, wife of a Republican attorney, and Edgar Leaycraft, Democratic Town Justice, had organized the non-partisan meeting "to deal with the undesirable element that has taken over our town," in Mrs. Egan's words. "Let's find some way legally to get our town back," she said in welcoming the crowd. Among the panelists were Justice Leaycraft, who noted the problem "is not a new one to Woodstock," but "seems to have become accentuated this year because more people are here and the solutions of the past haven't worked!" Leaycraft insisted the town has been arresting, fining and jailing people for trespassing and other offenses for quite a number of years, but this does not seem to be the answer to the problem. He suggested local ordinances should be prominently posted and the flow of the outside influx "cut at the other end" by well placed articles in metropolitan papers and on city radio stations emphasizing local restrictions.

Another panelist, Dr. Norman N. Burg, noted that some of the newcomers "are now part of us and cannot be accused of trespassing since they have bought homes and businesses here." He argued that their philosophies "will not be submerged by force;" said "any transient meeting for vituperation or elimination will not succeed." Dr. Burg suggested a citizens council be formed to review and study the entire issue.

Woodstock Planning Board Chairman Benjamin Webster suggested that the "penalties meted out on provable cases" by local justices of the peace "are peanuts compared with what they might be." He criticized the recent ruling by the Town Board that music and late night noise would have to cease by 1:30 a. m.; suggested that 11 p. m. would be more in keeping with such regulations elsewhere. Webster urged that the town publish a pamphlet to be distributed to newcomers, informing them "what they can do and what they must do if they want to 'enjoy Woodstock.'"

Other panelists included Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin, who lamented the fact that today's laws "protect the arrested ones and have taken away the rights of the people throughout history." He said he personally believed in "real, true, severe sentences;" assured those present that the county jail "can handle all arrests;" and suggested Woodstock "could have a town law establishing a curfew."

★ ★ ★ Hippie Impact To Be Topic of Woodstock C of C

WOODSTOCK In view of the importance of the main subject of discussion at the annual meeting of Woodstock Chamber of Commerce, Christopher Morris, president, has announced that the meeting will be open to the public and urges that all concerned residents of Woodstock attend at Woodstock Town Hall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The subject, "The Hippie Movement and its Impact on Woodstock As a Community," will be discussed by a panel of outstanding members of the community representing many points of view.

A question and answer period will follow.

Special Investigator Thomas Mayone of the Ulster County District Attorney's Office explained the laws governing criminal trespass and loitering, unlawful entry and burglary with intent to commit a crime, as well as investigations into drug cases locally.

Another guest speaker, Joseph Mizerek, a consulting engineer from Saugerties, discussed his own personal problems as a homeowner residing in close proximity to last summer's Sound Out music festival in High Woods; urged those present to "forget the vigilante business" and work through the "excellent police force" in handling the problem.

The local police force was represented on the panel by Chief Constable William Waterous, who praised the Woodstock Town Board for increasing his force to three full time and seven part-time men and for equipping two patrol cars as well as investigations into tie-in with the sheriff's department. Waterous said he felt the town "needs a full time police department of at least six men, so we can have 24-hour police service."

Some suggested remedies also came from those attending

Among these were a $50 fine for loitering, laws prohibiting panhandling, removal of benches maintained by stores, benches provided for bus passengers only in the Village Green area, consultations with other towns which have encountered similar problems and solved them, a crackdown on cars overloaded with hippies and those who sit on sidewalks, and more ticketing of illegally parked cars.

A Gaullism Era Minus the General

PARIS (UPI) — President Jacques Chaban-Delmas in effect said this about the top of the old Gaullist guard: "Maurice Couve de Murville, nine years De Gaulle's foreign minister, gone. Pierre Messmer, keeper of the nuclear striking force as armed forces minister, gone. Andre Malraux, the general's literary blood bank as minister of culture, gone. Edgar Faure, minister of education and Jean Jeanneney, minister of state, both gone."

Composition of the cabinet indicated there would be continuity in the broad lines of Gaullist policy but also room for Pompidou to reshape relations with the United States and toward UNITED Europe, if he chose.

Besides Debre, the top-ranking cabinet appointments were: Maurice Schumann, 58, as foreign minister. Hard-line Gaullists in the national assembly pressured Pompidou to give this job to Debre. Schumann has long favored resumption of close relations with the United States in a strong Atlantic alliance, plus a united Europe with Britain included. He quit De Gaulle's cabinet in 1962 to protest "nationalistic" policies.

—Valery Giscard d'Estaing as finance minister. Giscard, one time finance minister for De Gaulle but also a maverick who headed his own independent Republican party, is a brilliant practitioner of conservative economic policy.

Then There Was Nothing

Hopeless Search in Water

AZLE, Tex. (UPI)—For eight and a half hours, Harvey Woods swam from the shore of Eagle Mountain Lake to the overturned boat, and then back again.

"A couple of times I thought I was going under myself," Woods, 39, said Sunday shortly after he was found by a rural newspaper delivery man.

Woods swam to the shore in a vain attempt to find help. Then he swam back to the boat in a hopeless search for the six persons with him when the boat overturned Saturday night.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Tuesday

Tonight, scattered showers and thunderstorms will occur over the northern Rockies and the northern Plains. Occasional rain is expected in the northeast changing to shower and thunderstorm activity over the Ohio and Tennessee valleys. Mostly fair weather will be anticipated elsewhere. Continued mild temperatures are forecast for most of the upper half of the nation while warm weather is expected for the remainder. Minimum readings include: Atlanta 70, Boston 60, Chicago 55, Cleveland 59, Denver 50, Duluth 50, Ft. Worth 72, Jacksonville 73, Little Rock 70, Los Angeles 61, Miami 75, New York 66, Phoenix 70, San Francisco 57, Seattle 57, St. Louis 62 and Washington 69 degrees.

"There were screams and lots of cries, and people were thrashing in the water," he said. "And then there was nothing."

The bodies of Woods' wife, Jackie, 32; his twin girls, Brenda Kay and Linda Faye Thorn, 4; and Leo H. Hall, 26, all of Fort Worth; and Charles Seborn, 40; and Mary Clay, 33, both of Azle, were not recovered.

But the Probe Goes On

Air Controllers in Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has warned it will not tolerate further government investigation of last week's slowdown, raising the possibility of a new—and possibly worse—air transportation crisis.

But the director of the Federal Aviation Administration's Air Traffic Service, William J. Flenner, said the probe would continue.

Between 250-300 controllers called in sick last Wednesday and Thursday, while those who reported enforced FAA safety rules to the letter, forcing airlines to cancel hundreds of flights and delay others for hours.

The controllers complained of being understaffed and overworked.

Resumes Today

When the slowdown ended Friday morning, FAA investigators began quizzing every controller who reported sick, asking each to furnish a physician's statement. Flenner said the interviewing was stopped Sunday but was to be resumed today.

"If this is continued today, we think the whole thing will blow up and aviation will come to a stop," the organization's vice chairman, James R. Egan, said in New York. He said he feared an "emotional and spontaneous" reaction by controllers in key cities, even though organization officials were urging members to "cool it."

In Boston F. Lee Bailey, counsel for the controllers, echoed the prediction. "If it happens again Monday these men will walk out," he said. "They all have lawyers and if the investigators want to talk with them, we are available."

Bailey said he protested to the Department of Transportation over the weekend it was "harassment" when investigators called controllers from their radar sets to be questioned.

Flenner said the goal of the investigation is "to find out the nature of the so-called spontaneous illness." The next step, he said, will be up to Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe and FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer.

Shaffer, he said, ordered the investigation.

Forbidden to Strike

The controllers are forbidden by law to strike, and the FAA try not to overextend themselves.

Friday Shaffer said there "is recognized need for additional air traffic control staffing to meet the demands on the system."

Sunday the controllers sent a telegram of protest to Volpe, Shaffer, the airlines, the Airline Pilots Association, the Flight Safety Foundation and the National Transportation Safety Board.

Paltz Police Take Exception To Criticism on Performance

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ Charges implying that town and village police personnel here, are not performing their duties as thoroughly and efficiently as they should be, have been outrightly disclaimed by local officials.

The charges, appearing in a recent editorial of the weekly, New Paltz Independent, stem from "considerable comment" that both town and village police are not taking full advantage of the New Paltz Communications Center.

The center, operated jointly by both municipalities, coordinates all emergency services in the area, including police, fire, medical, and emergency maintenance.

are unaware of such complaints upholding that police service in the area is functioning excellently.

The editorial states that the center is "a welcome addition to the services of the community and it should relieve service personnel of the village and town, including policemen, to do their jobs more thoroughly," however, it goes on to ask, "but does it?"

The editorial specifically charges that reports have been received that both village and town police vehicles are congregating at the center when they should be on patrol and that the town constable has "often not been available for a day or two or more in a row."

Praise Police

However, prominent village and town officials, including the town supervisor, mayor of the village, village chief of police, have told the Freeman that they

"It would seem that with such modern communications facilities in the Emergency Communications Center, there is little excuse for village patrolmen to spend much time not patrolling, and it would also seem that the town residents have a right to expect the services of a full time constable," it states.

Town Supervisor, Anthony Moriello, who appeared to be more perplexed than angered with the editorial attack, said that the charges regarding the town constable were "unfounded" and based on "conjecture rather than fact."

Moriello, who was instrumental in setting up the communications center, in January of 1968, said that the town's one full-time constable, David Graham, has carried out his responsibilities in a "highly satisfactory manner" and that no indications to the contrary had been brought to his attention.

On 24-hour Call

Moriello noted that Graham, a retired New York policeman, is on 24-hour call, and while he is not actively on duty at all times, he is "always available" to respond to calls.

In response to the editorial charge that the constable's patrol car is "sometimes not driven for days," Moriello replied, "to my knowledge that car is used every day."

However, he pointed out that part time constables often use their own vehicles.

Nicolas Pape, chief of police in the village of New Paltz, was somewhat more disturbed by the charges, than the town supervisor.

Pape outlined to The Freeman the lengthy police report for the month of May, which included, in part, 229 summonses, 109 moving violations, and 205 responses to complaints.

"It would be hard to accomplish this by sitting around all day," he said.

County Welfare — Changes Are Seen

KINGSTON The new payment system for New York State's 1.5 million welfare recipients may mean smaller welfare checks in many parts of the state but not in Ulster County, according to Joseph Fitzsimmons, social services commissioner.

In a good many instances, locally, the new system may actually mean an increase in welfare checks and consequently a higher tab for the county to pick up.

Under the new system the state is divided into four payment groups with basic monthly allowances for a family of four—ranging from $185 in Western New York to $208 in New York City.

Ulster County falls into the second grouping which allows $191 for a family of four. "This is about eight dollars more than they are presently receiving," Commissioner Fitzsimmons explained.

He said also that he feels Ulster County is being grouped with more affluent counties such as Westchester and Nassau and Suffolk counties and he "doesn't believe local living expenses are on a par with those counties."

No estimate of the additional cost will be made until each caseload and its particular aspects are considered.

The new welfare checks, which are exclusive of shelter and fuel needs, which the department will continue to pay, will vary according to the size of the family. In Ulster, the new figures are as follows on a monthly basis: one person, $65; two persons, $107; three persons, $149; four persons, $191; five persons, $233; six persons, $270; seven persons, $307. Each additional person is scheduled to receive $37.

The new "four-scheduled" alignment was devised by the New York State Social Services Department in implementing the "flat grant" payment plan enacted as an economy measure by the 1969 Legislature.

A department spokesman said the state and local governments could expect to save $30 million each, and the federal government $40 million during the ensuing 12 months.

Under the new schedule, the department said, the differences in payments reflect variations in the cost of utilities in the various counties.

CD Police Meets Tonight

KINGSTON The Kingston-Ulster County Civil Defense Auxiliary Police will meet this evening in the Moose Hall 82 Prince Street for the final meeting of the season. The next regular meeting will be held Sept. 8.

A Million Dollars to Relieve Itch of Piles

It is estimated that over a million dollars a year is spent on varied remedies to relieve itch of piles. Judicial Conduct Code

Faced with the warning that if it did not put its house in order, the Congress would do it for them, the U.S. Judicial Conference put through a crash requirement that federal judges—but not Supreme Court Justices—are to end all outside activities for pay to file annual income and financial statements. The action was sweeping enough to have condemned in principle the outside compensation that led to the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas and the decision of Justice William O. Douglas to give up his $12,000-a-year post with the Albert Parvin Foundation.

The conference has no jurisdiction over the Supreme Court, but this beginning on a code of judicial ethics will no doubt have the force of moral suasion that will effect the highest bench in the land. It would prevent Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger from continuing as a $2,000-a-year trustee of the Mayo Foundation, despite its high standing as a national trust in the medical field. Burger has already said he may drop the trusteeship in a general reevaluation of his whole mode of life.

The effect of the ban on moonlighting was also seen in the action of Justice William J. Brennan Jr. He recently left his teaching position at summer seminars that include some of the nation's most prominent judges. He said he is eliminating all nonjudicial activity except his membership in his church.

The conference has no power to enforce its orders, but they will expose to public condemnation any judge who fails to live up to them, if he does not conform. To make sure that he does, the conference is drafting "standards of judicial conduct for federal judges," an ethical code that could have the force of law if Congress approves it. Legislation to make conference regulations legally binding is also being drafted.

The judges have gone beyond the codes of ethics Congress drafted for its own members for the executive branch. They want no future scandal to besmirch the judiciary, for which the public is duly grateful.

Taxes on Credit Card

If anyone doubts that the credit card has become part of the American way of life, it is now possible in three Ohio counties to say, "Charge it" to the local tax collector.

So far the privilege is limited to those who hold a BankAmericard and who, of course, are not paying their taxes in advance along with each monthly mortgage payment. But, undoubtedly, other banks which have their own credit cards will move in for a slice of the action, and if the idea is successful for all concerned, undoubtedly it will spread to other counties and other states.

For the tax collectors, the scheme promises to cut down on the number of tax delinquents. They figure that people will charge their taxes when due rather than risk incurring a penalty of 10 per cent or more for paying late. The counties will receive their money immediately from the banks which issued the cards and the actual collection will be a matter between the bank and the card holder.

The banks, which are providing the services to the counties free of charge, stand to benefit from the natural human proclivity to put off until tomorrow those bills we would rather not pay today. Many people will likely prefer to pay for their taxes over a period of several months, even if it does cost them some interest, rather than be socked with the whole bundle at one time.

In this life, nothing is certain but death and taxes, said Benjamin Franklin. He should have added: And the American businessman's ability to spot a potential profit where one would least expect it.

'If You Love 'Em, Belt 'Em'

The slogan of the Automobile Club of Michigan should be made national—"If you love 'em, belt 'em." It means, that parents should not only buckle seat belts for themselves, but they should also belt their children.

A jump of 58 per cent in injuries to child passengers alarmed the auto club. Nearly seven out of 10 injured in traffic were riding in automobiles. Only three out of 10 were pedestrians or bicycle victims.

The campaign is specific. Says Reynier Staats, of the club's safety division, a child standing up in a car or lying down on the back seat becomes a human projectile in a sudden stop. He is thrown against the front seat, the instrument panel or the windshield if the driver escapes an accident by hard jamming of the brakes.

Entering some expressways, the driver is always warned to look to his safety belt. Many do, and buckle their belts before going out into traffic. Children may or may not be advised to do the same. They should be.

Communities have helped reduce pedestrian accidents to children by safety precautions and procedures. They can be as effective in this new drive. It's a natural: "If you love 'em, belt 'em."

David Lawrence Says

Elections Are Ruled Out In Labor Bargaining

WASHINGTON — Ever

since collective bargaining was recognized more than 30 years ago by federal law as the right of workers in America, it has been generally thought by the public that formal determination as to whether a labor union has a majority in a given plant could be made only as a result of an election by secret ballot.

But last week the Supreme Court of the United States completely demolished the idea that an election is a prerequisite to ordering an employer to bargain with a union. It ruled that the mere presentation of labor-union "authorization cards" reflecting a majority is adequate.

What this means is that a worker doesn't always have the right to express himself privately as to whether he desires a certain union to represent him in bargaining with his employer.

This may be a surprise to many people who have believed that whenever elections of any importance are held, either by private organizations or by the government, the individual has a right to a secret ballot — which is unsigned and not subject by any means to identification.

The National Labor Relations Board has been insisting for a long time that an election was not necessary under certain circumstances, particularly if there were unfair labor practices by an employer which seemed to prevent a fair election. The board, on the other hand, has not taken into account that coercion is frequently used to compel workers to sign "authorization cards" for the union and that rarely will an employee venture to make public accusations about such pressure for fear of further harassment.

Employers have complained from time to time — and lower federal courts sometimes have agreed — that some of the cards presented by the union as "authorized" were actually obtained through false misrepresentations or through intimidation of the employees. Workers find it difficult to refuse to sign a card handed them by a fellow worker. If they do decline to sign, the word is passed around in the shop and threats of reprisals by union supporters or organizers usually follow.

The secret ballot permits a worker to express himself for or against a union, but he will no longer have that opportunity in all instances. Hereafter, he will be subject to the coercion inherent in the fact that fellow workers who put the card before him will know whether or not he has signed the "authorization."

The general impression has been that, under the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947, bargaining rights were to be determined only through secret-ballot elections. The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals agreed with that contention in three cases which recently went before the Supreme Court. But the Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Chief Justice Earl Warren, gave its own interpretation, and rejected that argument flatly. It stated that "a union is not limited to a board election" in order to prove majority status.

The court pointed to a provision in the original Wagner Act, and still in the law, which says that "it shall be an unfair labor practice for an employer...to refuse to bargain collectively with the representatives of his employees." The court referred also to a bargaining representative as the one "designated or selected" by a majority of the employees. The decision of the Supreme Court now is that an employer has a duty to bargain whenever the union representative presents "convincing evidence of majority support."

But the big question left unanswered is how it is going to be proved that the evidence is valid and that no form of coercion has been used. The lower court pointed out that Congress, in the 1947 law, had made elections "the sole basis for certification" of a union by the National Labor Relations Board. The Supreme court says this does not mean that the board has no other way of determining that a majority status exists or that a fair election may be impossible because of unfair labor practices by an employer.

The secret-ballot election would appear to be the only fair way to get a worker's honest opinion as to whether or not he wishes to join a labor union. If the National Labor Relations Board has reason to think an employer has interfered or used coercion, another election could readily be held and policed by the board to insure that no unfair labor practice occurs.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The members of The Commission—the Mafia bosses of all the bosses — have loose tongues and tight pants. They won't talk to each other unless they can hide among the canned sardines in the back of a restaurant. And that's where the F.B.I. has the microphone.

They might as well be on radio. They are always busy "straightening" someone out, and sometimes they get the guy so straight he never moves again. When they are not doing this, they are talking in riddles about "respect."

This is something which a cheap "torpedo" must accord to his superiors, and which Mafia families grant to each other.

Look what happened to Joe Bananas. He had upstate New York in his hip pocket until one day he flunked in geography. He thought that Los Angeles was a suburb of Buffalo. When The Commission heard that Joe was shaking coconuts out of California, they stopped inviting him to Commission meetings.

You are in okay condition if they have never invited you to a meet. But if you have been a regular member and they stop inviting you — like Bananas — it could be dangerous to be caught waving hello to him from across the street.

The capos do nothing but talk, talk, talk. The F.B.I. knows more about their business than they do. They also know more about who wants to "hit" whom, which is something the hittee would love to know so that he can hop the next plane to Saigon, where a man is reasonably safe.

One capo suggested a huge magnet, used for smashing automobiles, for the disposal of bodies, but the other capos claimed the idea was stolen from a movie called "Goldfinger." Another is said to have suggested a machine which pulverizes garbage, and this appealed to the poetic souls among the chieftains.

Gyp DeCarlo, who is not a capo and should have had more "respect," said that the best way is to get the bum in a car, prepare an overdose of narcotics and tell the victim that it is "lie detector stuff." He gets the needle and "we leave him behind the wheel. That's where they find him."

If the victim suspects that the needle is not truth serum, "You say 'Tony Boy' wants to shoot you in the head and leave you in the street. Or would you rather take this—we don't have to embarrass your family or nothing." Naturally, the wrong would rather be caught dead than embarrass his family. That's respect.

Everything they talk about comes up in numbers. There was a contract out to hit an outsider named "Gus." Capo Sam DeCavalcante used a phone—a telephone—to discuss it with his cousin Bob Basile. The F.B.I. tapes were spinning as Bob said: "All right. We'll send two guys up there. Two guys enough?" Capo Sam: "You may need three. This guy's a big guy." Bob: "All right. I'll send four." Capo Sam: "All right. What else is new?"

Ah, that Sam. He could have made it big as a newscaster. He called a torpedo in Connecticut to explain that he had "straightened" everybody out except Joe Bananas. The torpedo: "Out on the coast there was some friction, wasn't there?"

Sam: "Well, he tried to take California over when they were having trouble. He sent his kid out there with 40 guys. The Commission stopped him and that's where the trouble started. If he'd have listened to me that time I went to talk to him this thing would have been all straightened out. They would have just bawled him out."

The torpedo, with commiseration and sorrow: "It's a shame. What was he—58, 59 years old—and the prestige he had! What was he looking for, anyway? It's really bad for the morale of Our Thing, you know? When they make the rules and then break them themselves. He's been in 20 years." Sam, in a superior tone: "Thirty-three years he's been in."

The trouble with the Mafia — let's face it — is that they spend too much time watching "The Untouchables." Now if Vito Genovese was still alive they wouldn't be in this mess. Vito would have put on his sunglasses and ordered everybody to get hit and there would be peace in the family...

Drew Pearson Says Earl Warren Will Be Labeled By History a Great American

"THE PILL"
On March 19, 1969 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that British doctors had found that women using birth control pills are much more susceptible to blood clotting. They gave details.
On June 15 the current issue of the British Medical Journal published a detailed report on the same subject, stating that women using birth control pills are about seven times more likely to suffer from blood clots.

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to one of his youngest grandsons, Dan Tyler Abell.)

Washington, D.C.
June 20, 1969

Dear Danny:

A very great man retires from the Supreme Court today. He is also a very much criticized man. But when you grow older you will find that the greater a man is, the more he is criticized. George Washington, for instance, was probably more severely criticized by the newspapers during his last term than any President in history.

You are now in the fourth grade. And by the time you are in college Earl Warren will be regarded as a man who molded America as much as any of our great Presidents.

Though he handed down hundreds of important decisions, I think the two which molded America most were first, the school desegregation decision; and second, the one-man, one-vote decision which gave a break to our long neglected cities.

In your history book you will learn how for 100 years Negroes had not been getting a fair break in this country. This is why the school desegregation decision is so important. For if Negroes can get the same education as white men, eventually they can be able to take their place economically alongside of white men. Of course, we're now in the throes of much turbulent readjustment, but turbulence always comes with readjustment, and we'll get over this in time.

The other problem which Chief Justice Warren tried to resolve grew out of the fact that this country has become largely urban, whereas it used to be rural. As people moved to the big cities and the suburbs they did not have equal rights in the state legislatures, which had long been stacked in favor of rural areas. So the Chief Justice, in a very bold and sweeping opinion, readjusted the balance of voting strength in this country.

He did it just in time, for the big cities had already started to boil over from lack of improvements, lack of money, and neglect.

He Never Ducked

Another great quality of Earl Warren's was that he didn't duck tough issues. One of the last decisions he handed down was one which he could have ducked, namely that of Adam Clayton Powell. Powell is a Negro Congressman who had misbehaved rather flagrantly and who was barred from taking his seat in Congress when elected by his own people.

The Chief Justice knew it would infuriate Congress if he told them they were wrong in refusing to seat Powell. There is nothing Congressmen hate more than being told they are wrong — especially a white Congress regarding a Negro.

Nevertheless, the Constitution was quite clear that only the people, not the Congress, have the right to decide whom they will send to Washington.

Another quality about Warren is that he has refused to sit in isolated legal splendor, but has kept in touch with the world.

He has traveled to Bolivia, the most out-of-the-way country of South America; to Ecuador, which is right on top of the Equator; and to Colombia; also to the communist countries of Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia and Russia.

I once asked him whether it was a good idea to have it known that he had visited these countries. He replied that these countries were very important in regard to peace and he wanted to know more about them. "I am not going to sit in isolation just because I am on the Supreme Court," he said.

He even traveled with me through Montenegro to the edge of the Albanian border, where, after World War I, I worked with a Quaker reconstruction unit. It was very hard traveling over very high mountains, and we had to get up about 5 o'clock every morning. But not once did he complain.

The Chief Justice loves to swim. He stays in the water like an old sea dog — much longer than your grandfather in the Black Sea off the Turkish coast, in the Aegean Sea off Greece, and in the Adriatic off Yugoslavia. Once President Tito of Yugoslavia warned him to be careful about the sharks, but he kept on swimming just the same.

And despite all the dull, dry legal papers he has had to read during his 16 years on the Court, the Chief always kept in touch with the sports world. "I read the sports pages first," he once told me, "because they record men's achievements. Then I look at the first page because it records men's failures."

Once after dinner on the mid-Pacific island of Maui, your grandmother asked Mr. Warren about a certain crucial period of his life when he was running for Vice-President in 1948 with Gov. Tom Dewey of New York.

"If you had won and been elected Vice-President," she asked, "would you be the same Earl Warren you are today?"

No, I don't suppose I would," he replied. "I expect I would have been just another member of the Establishment."

That remark illustrates how history is made. If Gov. Dewey had not lost that election to President Truman — and it was a very close election, influenced by such small things as a railroad engineer who backed his train at the wrong time — we would not have had a very strong man molding our history for the last 16 years. As he retires today the critics will be delighted. But I predict the history books when you are in college will describe Earl Warren as one of the truly great men of our day.

Have a good time in Maine and do more swimming than studying. You'll get plenty of that next fall.

Love,
Your Grandfather

Partisanship Not His Bag

Ted Kennedy Lets Chips Fall

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The measure of Senator Edward M. Kennedy's rising status as a 1972 Democratic presidential prospect can be taken from the heat he is getting from both left and right.

The doctrinaire liberals, of whom Kennedy is not one, have been trying to work their private persuasions upon him tirelessly ever since he won the job of assistant leader of the Senate Democrats in January.

The more conservative elements in both parties had left him fairly well alone until he began swinging hard against the ABM and the Hamburger Hill military operation by U.S. forces in Vietnam. Now, however, they are chopping at him. And his adverse mail has reached heavy proportions.

The Kennedy utterances that are displeasing the conservatives naturally have an appeal to the partisan liberals. But they are far from totally captivated by the senator's activities.

Evidently no one who has not been subjected to the doctrinaires' pressures can have any true appreciation of their intensity.

They want the senator's name on every cause they espouse, no matter how realistic its substance. They want him grabbing a banner and marching in every protest they mount. They want him spouting the language of "total commitment" by which they live.

Kennedy continuously spurns this ultimate partisanship, and has no intention of ever moving that way. He is the pragmatic type, interested in forward movement, but only on the practical level where the substance of proposals is real and the hopes of winning the day more than fragile.

Says one friend:

"You can't just be playing one bugle in the corner all the time... If you do that, no one will pay any attention to you, and you won't have any effectiveness at all."

Arguments like that do not impress the partisan liberals.

Again and again they say to Kennedy and his key aides: "You just don't understand how deeply we feel about this."

He insists he does, but that he cannot simply respond to their every wish. Hearing that, they tend to dismiss him as a "hack" overburdened with an instinct for caution.

An aide protests: "It's not caution, it's discretion."

Kennedy's new habit of open assault, typified most by his criticisms of the Hamburger Hill maneuver, is less a response to cumulative doctrinaire pressures than it is personal decision to act on his own "gut feelings."

The extraordinarily strong reaction against his freewheeling posture on some of the big issues has given him a little pause. But it is said that he is getting advice to ignore the private whisperers and the public shouters on both sides.

Probably he does not really need such counsel. He shares some of the fatalism of his late brother, Robert, who used to say he would have become a "basket case" if he tried to gauge each act or utterance against the chart of popular attitudes — or in terms of its possible effect on the contending forces of right and left.

Kennedy's idea of leadership, says a friend, is to get things done "with the great center mass you have to move" to change the country's course for the better.

That means rejecting the partisan liberals' "message" much of the time, even though privately he may often be on their wave length.

On the other hand, "getting things done" that move the big center mass may not always be the consequence of responding to his own gut feelings. His awareness of that is among the things that give him concern as he watches the adverse mail pile up.

Rondout School Meeting
Dear Editor:

The account in last week's Freeman of the June 17th meeting of the Rondout Valley Central School Board of Education contains errors in reporting that fail to do justice to the positions I took at this meeting. It is easier to state what I did say rather than cite each paragraph and the error in question.

To the audience I read a letter printed on School District stationery and mailed to an unknown but probably small number of district residents. The letter was signed by William Davenport, although bearing no title. The letter cites results of a study showing that 30 per cent of the parents of children attending district schools are not registered, and that these parents should be contacted and urged to register. The letter states this group is more inclined to vote "yes" on a budget. The recipients of these letters each received on a separate sheet five to ten names of unregistered parents to contact.

First I asked the Board if

Mr. William Davenport was a Board member or an employee of the school system. The chairman answered "No" and admitted also that the Board of Education was unaware of the existence of this letter. Further questioning elicited a response from Superintendent Dr. Ted Grenda that he knew of the letter, that it was run off at the school office at taxpayer expense...with his approval.

I openly criticized Dr. Grenda's participation in any effort to register only those calculated to be the most receptive to voting "Yes" on a school budget, that this was discriminatory...and, further, the mailing of purportedly official school business in the envelopes of a private firm was an outright act of irresponsibility.

Moments later I suggested to the Board that for this and other matters I felt the Board should consider ousting Dr. Grenda and seek a new Superintendent of Schools. This point was omitted completely by your reporter in his story.

One Board member, Horace Sarr, stated that had the question of mailing out this letter in the envelopes of a private business firm been submitted to the Board, he would have voted, to approve. I stated that in my opinion he too, could be criticized for taking the position that "the end justifies the means" for which I had criticized Dr. Grenda. Your report has me criticizing the Board. I did not...just one member.

Your story has me criticizing the Board's presentation of this year's budget I did not. In fact, the Board handled it well in my opinion.

Your story has me involving William Davenport in the Board's activities and heading a "pressure group." It ought to be clear from the above that it was Dr. Grenda's "pressure group" and not the Board's.

Finally, your reporter states that the Board defended Davenport and the list of names sent out. The Board did not defend Davenport. It stated that it would make an investigation into the Davenport/Grenda letter matter and thus we must now all wait until their report on the incident is forthcoming.

Respectfully,
DONALD G. ROSS

Safeguard ABM System

Editor, The Freeman
If Congress must first be confident the proposed ABM System will work as designated and intended and have reasonable assurance of its guarantee of security and of its deterrent capacity," as you stated in yesterday's editorial, then the so-called Safeguard System must be rejected because of grave doubts as to the technical feasibility of its computer portion.

COMPUTER PROFESSIONALS AGAINST ABM have listed reasons why the Safeguard computer probably could not be made to work at all:

It would involve a highly complex computing task without any testing under actual operating conditions on parallel operation. Since the elapsed time from warning to launching would be mere minutes, it would be almost impossible to have the decision reviewed by the President or senior military authorities.

The precise nature of the computing task cannot be definied. It could not be definitely known what sort of evasive maneuvers the attacker would use; therefore the defensive actions could not be programmed and tested in advance.

Realistic testing is impossible since it would require nuclear explosions in the atmosphere. Only artificial test data could be used.

Unlike such other computer systems as those used for election results, the Safeguard computer could not be improved on the basis of experience. We'd never get a second chance.

The Safeguard ABM System could by itself initiate a nuclear explosion through misinterpretation of radar signals, machine malfunction, or programming error.

I believe that the ABM System ought to be rejected for these reasons alone.

Sincerely,
RONALD SOBIEGAJ

Saugerties Petition

Editor, The Freeman

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PEOPLE OF SAUGERTIES:

In the Freeman last night Mr. Simmons, president of the Board of Education, virtually accused the teachers of Saugerties of initiating the petition asking the Board to consider and request the resignation of Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, Superintendent of Schools. We, the Saugerties teachers, hereby state and affirm that this petition did not originate from nor was it ordained by any teachers of the Saugerties system. To the best of our knowledge not one teacher's name appeared on said petition as Mr. Simmons should have discerned since he has "been around here long enough." Be it here known that there well may be teachers who sanction such a petition, but it was the public of Saugerties who felt the necessity of such action and who duly implemented it.

Further, Mr. Simmons is quoted as referring to his teachers as "abusive and militant." Certainly he is aware that such behavior if it exists is not inherent to individuals but is learned owing to existing conditions.

Man Drowns In Boat Mishap At Pine Hill

PINE HILL, the side of the overturned boat, and attempted to rescue Freeman, but the victim disappeared under the water. Hazzard was rescued by Norman Washington, a lifeguard at the lake.

Attempts to rescue Freeman failed. Deputies from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department arrived minutes later and began grappling operations in an attempt to recover the body. Freeman's body was found at approximately 5:15 p.m., some four hours after the accident occurred.

The body was taken to the Ulster County Morgue and examined by Coroner Arthur C. Chipp. The accident occurred less than one hour after the group arrived at the weekend resort.

Deputies Harry Schwartz and M. J. Canosa investigated.

They reported that Harold V. Freeman, of 1437 Shakespeare Avenue, was boating on the lake with two companions, identified as James Payne and Lawrence Hazzard, also of the Bronx.

The three were near the middle of the small lake when the boat capsized. Payne grabbed

Legion Backs Stand of Clerics On Movie Rating

KINGSTON

Kingston Post 150, American Legion, has come out in support of action taken by three religious faiths in Kingston and Ulster County urging use of the rating system for movies according to age suitability.

At the Legion meeting last week, the Rev. John G. Russell, post chaplain, reported on action taken by the Kingston Association of Ministers, Rabbis and Priests to urge Walter Reade Jr., movie theater owner to adopt the film industry's rating system. Reade has been opposed to the adoption of the rating formula.

A resolution was adopted by the local Legion Post to support the efforts of the clergy and to seek the cooperation of all parents in the Kingston area in bringing about the desired rating system in local theatres.

Arrest Teeners In Woodstock for Garbage Tossing

WOODSTOCK

Seven Dutchess County teenagers were arrested in Woodstock Sunday afternoon and later charged with disorderly conduct after they reportedly scattered empty cartons and garbage in the parking lot of the Grand Union and A & P Supermarkets on Tinker Street in the village.

Woodstock Constables and troopers from the Lake Katrine barracks apprehended the youths at approximately 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon. They were arraigned before Town of Woodstock Justice Edgar Leary on charges of criminal mischief in third degree. They later pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of disorderly conduct.

Those arrested were: Edward Mead of Tivoli, Martin Pulder of Rhinebeck and Daniel S. Macchell, David Rockefeller, James Ross, Wayne D. Lazaros and Donald H. Hagen, all of Red Hook.

They were fined $30 apiece, then taken to Ulster County Jail in lieu of the fines.

Troopers Jerry Brainard and Alan Hills investigated.

Mt. Marion Boy Injured in Fall Near Glenrie

KINGSTON

A young Mt. Marion boy was injured Sunday afternoon when he fell off a 50-foot rock ledge at Glenrie near Route 9W in the Town of Saugerties.

Thomas Maloney was reportedly climbing the steep rock ledge with some companions when the accident occurred. It took more than two hours to rescue the boy and carry him to the main road. Maloney reportedly fell into a creek below the ledge.

He was taken by Saugerties Ambulance to Kingston Hospital where he was treated for lacerations and later released.

Maverick Concert Series Schedule

A promising and musically Baroque and Elisabethan rewarding series of concerts in Woodstock has been announced by the Valley Quintet, a part of the Maverick Concerts Committee for its 54th year.

Music lovers in the Northeast and in particular in Woodstock and its environs, look with well deserved pride on 54 years of chamber music of the highest order, offered year after year. The established tradition will continue this year when all the great works of the classical repertoire will be presented, along with some novelties, to keep the audience in contact with a modicum of the trends, some very exciting, of the modern music that has been, and is being, written. The committee feels that an acquaintance with the prevailing musical thinking is a "sine qua non" of the aware music lover.

Among the ensembles playing this season at the Maverick will be, in the order of their appearance: The Musical Arts Trio, with John Wummer, flute; The Inez Carroll-Richards Memorial Concert with Fritz Kroll, violin. The other artists collaborating in this event will be David Sackson, viola; Ilse Sass, piano, and the rare appearance, specifically for this concert of the long-time resident, Cynthia Britt, cello.

Also, Jaqueline Marciaut, piano, with Robert Bloch, violin; The Garvanas Trio with Alice Smiley, violin.

Next in order The Renaissance quartet playing

Jaycees Install Officers

WOODSTOCK At the annual Woodstock Jaycee installation banquet recently George Leombruno, past director of the United States Jaycees, installed Walter Rhodes as Woodstock Jaycee president succeeding Ralph Perry.

Newly installed officers also include Richard Vandervort, internal vice president, Phillip Cunningham, external vice president, David Davis, Richard DeLorenzo, Peter Frosio, Thomas McInerney, and Richard Zuccaro, local directors; Walter Bollenbach, secretary; Peter Tosi, state director and Walter Winiewicz, treasurer.

Fresh Air Fund Seeks Families To Participate

WOODSTOCK Through the Fresh Air program this summer 20 needy New York City children are happily returning to the Woodstock area to spend two weeks of their summer vacation with host families they have visited before.

Some of these host families will be renewing friendships that were begun as long as four years ago. Other families are carrying on family tradition by opening up their homes and hearts to a Fresh Air child as their parents had done when they were children.

For anyone interested in inviting a needy city child between the ages of 5 and 12 it still isn't too late. You may provide a city child with the experience of a lifetime and it may very well turn out to be the most rewarding two weeks of your summer also. For information about the Fresh Air Fund program contact Mrs. Leonard Waters of Maverick Road, Mrs. Gregory Gebert, Briarwood Lane, or Mrs. John Ebbs of Broadview Road.

Orientation Set Tonight For Pageant Contestants

SAUGERTIES The second orientation meeting in Saugerties for prospective contestants in this year's Miss Ulster County Pageant will be held tonight 8 p.m. at Joseph's Beauty Salon, Main Street.

Slate Program Of Recreation

SAUGERTIES Saugerties Recreation Department will start its summer program on Monday, June 30 and will continue until Aug. 22.

The schedule for days and locations for the program from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. is as follows: Junior-Senior High School, Monday through Friday; Barclay Heights Park, Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Mt. Marion School, Tuesday and Thursday.

The program is open to all Saugerties School District children of school age. The morning program will be planned primarily for 6 to 10 year olds and afternoon program will be for 11 years and older.

The actual operation of the program will depend upon enrollment and use of school buildings.

Registration forms will be passed out in the elementary schools and the junior high school and should be brought to the directors on opening day June 30.

Anyone that wants more information about the summer program can contact Peter Kramer or John P. Smith.

In addition to Saugerties young ladies, all girls in the 18 to 27 year age group, interested in learning more about the Scholarship Pageant to be held August 23 are invited with parents or friends.

Color slides of last year's pageant will be shown and applications will be available for those wishing to be nominated. To be eligible an entrant must reside or attend school in Ulster County, and must be between 18 and 27 years old by the date of the State Pageant in July 1970. She must be a high school graduate by the same date and never been married.

The winner and runners-up will share $1,000 worth of scholarships at the schools of their choice, and the new queen will qualify for the Miss New York State Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City.

The new Miss Ulster County will succeed Diana Jean Knight of West Hurley, who is the reigning queen.

The Entries Committee headed by Miss Janis Johnson of West Hurley, Miss Ulster County of 1968 also includes Pamela Davis Suenram of Barclay Heights, Miss Ulster County 1966 and Mrs. Marilyn Duer of Windemere.

Rocky After Third Trip: Hopes for Change of Mind

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ended the third leg of his Latin American tour for President Nixon, hopeful that three nations that asked him to stay away would change their minds.

"We remain available should Chile, Peru and Venezuela soon find it convenient to schedule visits for the mission," the presidential envoy said on arrival here Sunday night.

"The third trip was the turning point of the mission," Rockefeller said in a statement. "A pattern of consultation has now been established which is providing the points of view... which the president was desirous of obtaining."

Three Arrested For Trespassing At Ashokan

ASHOKAN — Three Long Island men were arrested near the east basin dividing weir of the Ashokan Reservoir Saturday morning and charged with criminal trespass, third degree.

The three, Lloyd Chaiste of Seaford, Robert Scotland of Flushing and Brian Lynch of Malverne were reportedly walking on the property without a permit. They were taken into custody by Watershed Inspector Calvin Bruckner after they allegedly refused to leave the property.

They were later arraigned before Town of Woodstock Justice Rudolf Baumgarten and fined $15 each.

Four Teenagers Held for Entry At Area Store

NEW BALTIMORE — Four New Baltimore youths were arrested by state police Sunday night and charged with burglary, first degree after they allegedly tried to burglarize Yoeman's Grocery Store on North Main Street in New Baltimore.

The four, aged 14 and 15, were not identified. The case was transferred to Greene County Family Court. The defendants were released in the custody of their parents.

Catskill troopers Robert Rose and John Kiebert arrested the youths in the store at approximately 10:30 Sunday night.

The New York governor visited Brazil, Uruguay and Paraguay last week on the third leg. Beginning next Sunday, he will return to Latin America for his fourth and final trip, to six nations.

Chile and Venezuela asked Rockefeller to say away because of threatened anti-American riots, Peru said his visit would be "inopportune" in view of a worsening of U.S.-Peruvian relations.

Violence in Montevideo, the Uruguain capital, forced the U.S. group to forsake its planned visit there for Punta del Este, where Rockefeller met with President Jorge Pacheco Areco.

Rockefeller believes his trips have been a success in finding out what Nixon wants to know in formulating his Latin American policies. Never has he wavered in his task.

Apprehend Four In County on Drug Charges

KINGSTON — Area police nabbed four men on charges of possession of a dangerous drug in two separate arrests Saturday.

Three persons were arrested late Saturday night by Ellen-ville State Police after a routine check of an auto on Route 44-55 in Kerhonkson revealed a quantity of marijuana and instruments capable of administering a drug.

Arrested were: Lester Light, 19, of 39 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, Paulette Wingeyer, 23, of 251 W. 109th Street, New York City and David Smith, 20, of Vermont.

They were arraigned before Town of Rochester Justice Abram D. Smith, fined $25 each and released. They were charged with possession of a dangerous drug, fourth degree.

Kingston State Police and Town of Woodstock Constables arrested Thomas Michael Lambert, 22, of RD 2, Kingston Saturday in Woodstock. He was charged with possession of a dangerous drug, fourth degree.

Woodstock police reported that Lambert was picked up on the Zena-High Woods Road, where he was camping in a lean-to. He was arraigned before Town of Woodstock Justice Rudolf C. Baumgarten and committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $500 bail. Police are currently investigating additional leads in the case.

Lambert reportedly had a quantity of Hashish on his person when arrested.

tions during the tours have grown from frustrations caused partly by the high promises and inadequate results of the U.S.-backed Alliance for Progress.

They also are the apparent work of Communists and others trying to wreck the relations between the United States and other nations of the western hemisphere, according to Rockefeller sources.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened easier today in moderately active trading.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI Stock Market Indicator was off 0.38 per cent on 437 issues traded. Of these, 198 declined and 125 advanced.

Steels were mixed as were oils. Aircrafts retreated, while electronics moved irregularly.

Bethlehem Steel gained 1/4, but U. S. Steel dipped 1/4 and Jones & Laughlin 3/4.

Pan Am traded a block of 12,500 shares, off 1/4.

Du Pont dipped 1/4 in the chemicals, but Eastman Kodak held unchanged.

LONDON (AP) — Six of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's seven-member "inner cabinet" are Oxford graduates. Cambridge, the other celebrated university in this old rivalry, is unrepresented.

Besides Wilson the other Oxford alumni are Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins, Defense Secretary Denis Healey, Employment Minister Mrs. Barbara Castle, and Social Services Minister Richard Crossman.

The only outsider, House of Commons Floor Leader Fred Peart, attended Durham University.

Ad Hoc Group Refutes Words Of Board Head

The Ad Hoc Committee of Concerned Parents & Taxpayers of Saugerties Central School District issued a statement today "to refute statements attributed to Arthur F. Simmons, board president in a June 17 news story."

The statement quoted Simmons at the June 16 board meeting as follows: "I strongly advise the board not to grant a public hearing on this petition, because it would establish a dangerous precedent." A motion to this effect was offered by a board member and after some discussion, action on whether or not to grant a public hearing on the matter was Simmons states in the article that "if the Board were to follow such a policy, (granting a public hearing to petitioners) it could, itself, get up a petition against militant, abusive teachers, and pour mass accusations upon their heads. Of the 196 petitioners, not one of us is a member of the Saugerties Teachers Association. The Ad Hoc Committee of Parents & Taxpayers is comprised of citizens who are disillusioned, dismayed, disgusted, and downright angry—with the status quo," the statement said.

The Ad Hoc Committee representatives, headed by Mrs.

Anita S. Henley, chairman, attended this meeting without counsel, and because their attorney was not present, decided against further disclosure of time as a public hearing could be obtained." At this time we are not interested in a private meeting with the Board to discuss specific charges, as Mr. Simmons implied he would be willing to arrange," Mrs. Henley said.

Asking Community Needs

Many Volunteers in Dutchess

RED HOOK
If a soft-spoken, motherly woman knocks on your door and says, "Would you be willing to answer some questions?" it might be Mrs. Frank Blum of Tivoli.

She is the mother of 15 children, last fall's director of the Migrant Day Care Center in Tivoli, and an interviewer for Northern Dutchess Community Services current project.

Mrs. Blum is one of a team of volunteers fanning out through Red Hook, Tivoli, and Milan asking about the needs of the community.

NDCS is a new group of service committees eager to help people through volunteer effort.

Opinions are being gathered on such needs as child care, employment, health services, and teenage and senior citizens projects. Answers to the questions will point to the problems most needing assistance.

Helping people appeals to Mrs. Blum. She and her husband, who is a butcher, have more love than money to give away. She says, "Even a nod, smile, some praise can help."

Money at the Blum household in Tivoli is spread among the needs of 14 of their children. The oldest son, aged 23, a graduate of Marist College, has left the nest. The next three sons live at home and attend Marist. The oldest girl, Marirose, goes to Nazareth College. Daughters

Ann Marie and Margaret attend a parochial school in Kingston, while Genemarie, Charles, Catherine, Gregory, and Christopher attend St. Christopher's in Red Hook.

Still at home are Cletus, Mari-beth and little Marie Noelle, aged 2½.

"There wouldn't be as much trouble with children," muses Mrs. Blum, "if parents just loved them; not giving them everything, but just time and affection." The happy faces and enviable scholastic achievements attest to the success of this philosophy.

Mrs. Blum's love reached out to encompass the children at the Migrant Day Care Center last fall when the former director went back to her teaching job. She didn't intend to go to work, but found it "just like taking care of a family".

She was able to be the director for two months, as her older daughters helped at home and neighbors cared for her young children. She became so attached to the migrant children that when the harvest was over she felt as if her own babies were going away. Typically, her salary went toward modernization of the family bathroom.

Mrs. Blum has never done interviewing before, but expects people to respond to the aims of NDCS. She forges the organization "doing a great deal of good." With volunteers such as she, it can hardly fail.

UCCC Grants Available For Police Training

Grants are available for local law enforcement and correction employees interested in taking courses offered by the Ulster County Community College in its Summer Sessions, Dean of the Faculty Robert J. Markes announced today.

The grants, made available from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the United States Department of Justice, will cover tuition for courses police and correction personnel take.

Dean Markes said the purpose of the grant is to provide an incentive for local law enforcement and correction personnel to upgrade themselves and their professions by taking college level courses. He added that the public will be the ultimate beneficiary of these programs.

Starting in September, the College will offer two-year Police Science and Correction Administration programs, and Dean Markes said law enforcement and correction personnel interested in these fields will be able to start taking some of the required course work this summer. Dean Markes said the College will use the grant funds to assist students enrolling in the Police Science and Correction Administration programs, and in courses related to these programs.

Priorities for tuition grants go to presently employed police and correctional personnel desiring in-service training.

Among the courses toward which the tuition can be credited in the Summer Session are Freshmen Composition, Fundamentals of Speech, Man and the Biological World, Developmental Psychology, Principles of Sociology, The Family, Criminology, Health and Physical Education, Humanities electives, College Preparatory Mathematics and College Mathematics.

Can Capture Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republicans have a chance to capture control of Congress in 1970, depending on the success of President Nixon's efforts to end the Vietnam War, according to GOP National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton. Morton said the GOP has an "excellent" chance of taking the Senate and a "very good chance" of winning House control.

Bodies Recovered

LITTLE VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) —The bodies of two men who went fishing Friday have been recovered from Allegheny Reservoir, created by construction of Kinzua Dam.

Hours after their overturned boat was discovered, the bodies of Ernest Newman, 52, and Paul McMillan, both of Kennedy, were found late Saturday.

'Up With People' Needs Quarters

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Housing accommodations still pose a problem for the 160 cast members of "Up With People" who will be in the area this weekend for three performances at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

The "Up With People" cast will arrive in Kingston late Thursday afternoon, fully equipped with 13 tons of sound, lighting and stage equipment. Living quarters are needed for the men and women entertainers from Thursday through Sunday evenings.

Cast members are not paid individually for their performances and they rely on the hospitality of the communities they visit to cover travel and education expenses.

Local residents are asked to provide only a bed, breakfast, dinner on Thursday and transportation to and from the High School for the young people during their stay in Kingston.

The homes do not necessarily have to be located within the City of Kingston, as long as the host is able to provide transportation to the High School in the morning and back to the home after practice ends in the afternoon.

A spokesman for "Up With People" told The Freeman Friday that some beds have already been obtained through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and IBM. She added, however, that "we've still got a long way to go."

The two road managers for the "Up With People" cast that will arrive in Kingston Thursday aren't, however, overly concerned about locating sufficient housing facilities for the remainder of their cast. They cited one example when "Up

With People" arrived in a community the night before a performance and were provided with sleeping facilities by local homeowners almost immediately.

Area residents who have spare beds available and who are willing to house the youthful world travelers, are asked to contact the "Up With People" representatives at the Governor Clinton Hotel before Thursday evening. The phone number at the hotel is 338-2700; ext. 349, and the representatives can be contacted any evening between 7 to 9 p.m.

The "Up With People" cast that will entertain in Kingston on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings recently returned from a three week tour of Italy where it was, received by enthusiastic audiences in every part of the country.

Tickets for the three weekend performances can be purchased at Abrams Music Store, 299 Wall Street, Rafalowski's clothing store, 71 Albany Ave., and the Kingston Music Center, 658 Albany Avenue Extension. Tickets may also be purchased at the door the night of the performances.

Kingston's Daily Doubles— Father and Son Combinations

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — "Like father, like son," goes the old adage, but to several Kingston residents it's more than just a saying.

In the local area, father and son pairs work together in private businesses, law firms and medical practices. And, in some cases, they even fight fires and combat crime together.

For the man whose son works by his side, or in the same profession, it's a sure bet that Father's Day was a happy affair. And the same holds true for the father who tried unsuccessfully to persuade his son to embark on a different, and possibly more rewarding career.

Police Family

Officer George Barringer and his son, Tom, both with the Kingston City Police Department, are examples of this last case.

Barringer, with 11 years service on the local force, told his son last year to take the fireman's test rather than apply for a position on the police force. He didn't explain why, but Tom didn't listen anyway, and today both make their living keeping the streets of Kingston safe.

Tom, however, knew that police work was in his blood. "You can't be around it for 11 years," he said, "without feeling its effect." Tom also added that while in service, he always asked for shore patrol, an indication of what his future vocation would be.

Whether or not a job with the Kingston City Police Department awaits the third generation of the Barringer family is, according to Tom, entirely up to his son. The youngster, barely old enough to recognize the crooks from the guys in the white hats, will have a lot to consider before making his final choice. According to his father, "Things will be a lot different in 20 years than they are now."

Louis Klein is another son who didn't listen to his father's advice, but his dad is extremely pleased that he didn't.

Advice Didn't Work

Aaron Klein, a Kingston attorney for 21 years, said that, "All fathers try to dissuade their sons from following in his footsteps." Klein explained that fathers generally consider their chosen profession to be the hardest and most unrewarding, and they want their sons to choose something better.

But his son apparently had different ideas. According to the elder Klein, "Louis was bound and determined from an early age to join the same profession."

Klein's son wasn't available to corroborate his father's story, so we may never know if his arm wasn't twisted just the slightest bit. But the facts in the case seem to verify that Louis was destined to become an attorney.

Louis was admitted to the bar in December of 1967. He worked with a "prestigious" New York City law firm for a time before joining his father's practice first as a clerk, associate, then partner.

Although the senior member of the firm felt that the opportunities in New York City were too great for his son to pass up, he readily agreed to admit his son to the firm. Today Klein says, "It's a great joy to have him work with me. It's a good feeling to know that when I'm gone, he will carry on the business and keep the clients happy."

Klein appears confident that his 18-month-old grandson will carry on the family tradition. According to Klein, the toddler "has the scales of justice in his eyes. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he became a lawyer too."

Two In Style

Charles Yallum, proprietor of a clothing store in uptown Kingston, founded the business with his father 56 years ago, and the prospects of the store remaining in the family for another generation look good. Robert and Elmor Yallum are currently assisting their father in the operation of the store.

Both sons indicated that they needed no persuasion to join their father's business. And the senior Yallum stated that his sons started working at the store some 10 years ago because they wanted to stay in the Kingston area after graduating from college.

Robert Yallum said that he won't try to persuade his son to take over the business when he gets older. And Elmor Yallum, a bachelor, said he's not LOOK, SON . . . ! — Officer George Barringer (L) an eleven year veteran on the Kingston City Police Force shows his son Tom the finer points of operating a patrol car radio. The Younger Barringer, on the force for six months, said police work was in his blood. But his father said he tried to discourage his son from entering the profession. Said Barringer, "Suppose he turns out to be a better cop than his father?" (Freeman photo by Haines) planning any surprises for Father's Day just to keep the business in the family for a fourth generation.

While the common arrangement, so far, has called for the son to follow in his father's footsteps, it worked the other way around for Fred Heybrück and his son, John, both with the Kingston City Fire Department.

John Heybrück has been a firefighter in Kingston for some two years. Last year, the elder Heybrück, who had taken over his father's plumbing business, was disabled and forced to find another job.

His son recommended that he take the dispatcher test for the city fire department. Heybrück agreed, passed the exam, and was appointed dispatcher at the central fire station.

The Heybrück family seems to have had some trouble deciding on a family profession, although not exactly by choice. Fred Heybrück's grandfather was a Kingston fireman at the turn of the century, but both he and his father shunned that career for the plumbing business.

Now the Heybrück family name is back on the register of the Fire Department. But there's no word about the occupational plans of the current

Self Help Goal Of Migrant Plan

The Southern Ulster Migrant Assistance Committee (SUMAC) will offer a comprehensive and diversified range of "self-help" programs this summer, to migrant agricultural workers and their families.

According to SUMAC's director, Harley F. Davis, the programs are not only designed to do good for these people, but also aimed at helping them to help themselves and the environment in which they reside.

SUMAC's self help program will be conducted both on the camp grounds by way of mobile classrooms and at other locations in the county and will be open to all of the 2,500 migrant workers and 500 re-settled migrants and their families, expected to be working in southern tier agricultural fields and orchards.

Included will be remedial instruction in both reading and mathematics and vocational training in areas ranging from cosmetology to general construction.

For the children of the migrant workers there will be pre-school educational programs, day-care centers, and a seven week summer camp at New Paltz State University camp facility in Shokan.

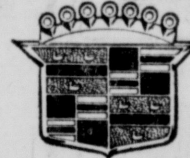

SUMAC will be assisted in its endeavors from such county based organizations as BOCES, Ulster County Department of Welfare, Ulster County Community Action Council, and the State University at New Paltz.

The purpose of SUMAC, according to Taylor, who is also executive director of the Office of Economic Opportunity in southern Ulster County, is "to build a coalition between the poor (migrant laborers) and the other elements of society in support of programs for social justice and economic opportunity."

Taylor says that to achieve this goal it takes changes in the policies of established institutions.

"For SUMAC," Taylor continues, "it is the job to build attitudes, to promote such change, and build coalitions of action that can convert the slow pace of changes we have made so far, into giant steps of progress."

Foster-Myers Nuptials

Mrs. Linda A. Foster, daughter of Mrs. Frances Foster, 120 Fair Street, Kingston, and the late H. C. Foster, became the bride of Rex Edward Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland H. Myers, 382 Broadway, Port Ewen, on Saturday, June 14, at Fair Street Reformed Church.

The Rev. Edwin Coon officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. William E. Ryland, organist, accompanied Miss Debora Pratt, who sang traditional wedding selections. Gold vases on the altar were filled with white gladioli and white shasta pompons. Palms adorned the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her half-brother, Leon Randall, the bride wore an A-line gown of white tulle and lace, featuring a stand-up collar and short sleeves with appliques of white re-embroidered French alencon lace and seed pearls. The detachable chapel length train was trimmed with lace and pearls and was secured by satin ribbon. Her silk illusion fingertip veil was shirred to a stylized headpiece of Alencon lace and seed pearls. The bride's gown was handmade by Mrs. Sylvia Randall.

Mrs. Lester Markle Jr., 25 Lafayette Avenue, Kingston, was matron of honor. She wore a petal pink concerto gown fashioned with a jewel neckline, bishop sleeves, and a soft skirt with a bow and streamers in the back. She wore a matching headpiece of small petals attached to a bouffant veil and she carried a fireside basket filled with white and pink shasta daisies, pompons, sweetheart pink roses, and baby's breath with pink streamers.

The Misses Roxann Myers, sister of the bridegroom, Port Ewen; and Melanie Gale, cousin of the bride, Phenicia, served as attendants. Their nine green gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's and they carried fireside baskets of yellow shasta daisies, pompons, and baby's breath, with nine green streamers.

SP/4 Albert Fassbender Jr., Port Ewen, was best man. Ushers were Frank Striegl, Port Ewen, and Jack Hines, Kingston.

After the wedding, a reception for 100 guests was held at Capri "400" Restaurant.

The bride wore a peacock blue dress and jacket ensemble with black patent leather accessories and a pink sweetheart rose corsage.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Kingston High School and attended Ulster County Community College. She is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Her husband is also a 1966 graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by Myers Rug Cleaning Co., Port Ewen.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers will reside in Port Ewen.

Marriage Vows Exchanged

Miss Rachel Jean Guay, Saugerties daughter of Mrs. Lillian Guay of South Lake Avenue, Troy, exchanged nuptial vows with William Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis Sr., West Shokan, on Saturday, June 7, at Our Lady of LaSalette Church, Boiceville.

The Rev. Father Gorman officiated at the double ring ceremony. Earl Proper, organist, accompanied Mrs. Earl Proper who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white snapdragons and white daisy pompons decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her brother, Roland R. Guay of Johnsonville, the bride selected a gown styled with fitted lace bodice, featuring a red-tinge tiered lace front and a detachable train of organza over net accented with Venice lace. She carried a cascade of white miniature carnations and ivy, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Doris A. Reimiller of Saugerties was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a light pink linen gown fashioned in the A-line styling with an empire bodice accented with embroidered lace. A bow with nylon veiling served as her headpiece and she carried a Flemish bouquet of soft pink and white assorted blossoms.

Attendants were Donna Reimiller of West Hazleton, Pa.; Maryelaine Houser, Harwood, Pa.; Carol Davis, West Shokan, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Elizabeth and Rachel Reimiller, both of Saugerties, nieces of the bride. Their pale pink linen gowns and headpieces were fashioned similarly to that of the honor attendant's and they carried Flemish bouquets of soft pink and white assorted blossoms.

Doris G. Reimiller, niece of the bride, Saugerties, was flower girl. She wore a shell pink linen gown, a bow headpiece, and carried a white basket of azalea pink miniature carnations and white daisies.

Gerald Davis of West Shokan was best man. Ushers were Arthur Davis, Allan Davis, Robert Davis, all brothers of the bridegroom, of West Shokan. Charles Davis Jr., nephew of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

After the wedding, a reception for 100 guests was held at Hanover Mountain Lodge, West Shokan.

For her wedding trip to the Adirondack Mountains the bride chose a pink dress styled with sheer nylon organza sleeves, an empire bodice with nylon organza collar and white accessories. The bride, a graduate of Troy High School, is employed by Marriott Corporation, New York State Thruway, Malden. Her husband, an alumnus of Ontario Central High School, attended Dutchess Community College, and served in the U.S. Army.

The couple will reside at West Shokan.

Chambers-Burns Nuptials

St. Mary's Church, Kingston, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Patricia Elaine Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Chambers, and Richard Michael Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Burns of 117 Hunter Street, Kingston, Sunday, June 15.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony. Theodore Riccobono, organist, accompanied Virginia Mancuso who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an organza gown in traditional style with a Sabrina neckline and mid-length Chantilly lace sleeves. The wide tiered skirt featured banding of matching lace and terminated in a chapel length train. She wore a stylized headpiece edged with seed pearls to which was shirred a silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of daisies.

Mrs. John Brown of Sawkill Trailer Park was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a sheath style gown of limette linen, fashioned with a scooped neckline and short sleeves. The empire bodice was encircled with Venice daisies and she wore a stylized headpiece of daisies with a shoulder length tulle veil.

Attendants were Mrs. James Naccarato of Kingston and Mrs. William Stokes of Hurley, both cousins of the bride. Their gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant's in aquamarine and maize, respectively.

Joanne Brown and Julie Brown, nieces of the bride, served as flower girls. Donna Chambers, sister of the bride, and Jane Mary Wisneski, cousin of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Their gowns were fashioned similarly to those of the other attendants with the flower girls in blue and junior bridesmaids in deep pink. They wore circlets of matching daisies in their hair.

Charles Ellsworth of Mt. Marion was best man. Ushers were Richard Chambers, brother of bride, Sawkill; John Brown, brother-in-law of bride, Sawkill Trailer Park. Ronald Chambers, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

After the wedding, a reception for 200 guests was held at Elmer's Inn, Ruby.

After a two-day wedding trip to the Berkshires, the couple left for a cruise to Bermuda. For her trip the bride selected a blue and white knit dress with white accessories and a corsage of white daisies.

The bride attended Kingston High School and is employed by Chambers and Sons Gulf Station as a bookkeeper. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Dutchess Community College, served four years in the U.S. Air Force. He is a local director of Jaycees, president of Kingston Republican Club, and supervisor of Bookkeeping Department at Kingston Trust Company.

The couple will reside at Hunter Street, this city.

Tiny Tips

Tasty Dips

For a cream-cheese dip for fresh vegetables, beat the cream cheese; then add finely grated onion pulp and juice, minced fresh dill and lemon juice to taste. Beat in a little cream—enough to give good dipping consistency.

Orange Rind

Always wash and dry that orange or lemon before you grate the rind from it.

Icing Cake

When you are icing a layer cake, first cover the sides with frosting, then heap the remaining frosting on top of the cake and spread smoothly.

INSTALLATION-AWARDS DINNER — American Legion Auxiliary Unit 150 held its annual installation and awards dinner Wednesday, June 13, at Cuneo's Restaurant, Kingston. Among the 50 members and friends in attendance were (L-R) Mrs. Henry Schmidt, a Gold Star mother who was presented with a Life Membership pin; Mrs. George Heppner, retiring president and recently elected secretary; Mrs. William Price, new president and Gold Star mother; and Mrs. Francis Dempsey, installing officer and past County Chairman. Other officers include Mrs. Harry Wiands, first vice president; Mrs. James Costello, second vice president; Mrs. Edward Scully, treasurer; Mrs. Ira Maurer, chaplain; Mrs. Ruth Augustine, sergeant at arms. Executive committee members are Mrs. Price, Mrs. Maurer, Mrs. Augustine; finance and budget, Mrs. Scully, Mrs. Costello, and Mrs. Heppner; delegates to the county meeting are Mrs. Maurer, Mrs. Augustine, Mrs. John Pugliese, Mrs. Costello and Mrs. Heppner. Throughout the year 25 local organizations have received donations from the Auxiliary. The Unit recessed for the summer and will resume meetings September 16 at the Post Home, 18 West O'Reilly Street. (Freeman photo by Haines).

ENSEMBLE CONCERTIZES — The Frances Gould ensemble performed in three concerts recently. On Tuesday, June 10 a performance was given for this summer adjournment dinner-meeting of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club; Wednesday, June 11 a performance was given at the Lake Katrine Senior Citizens Club; Saturday, June 14, a concert was given at the Lake Minnewaska Mountain House. The June 11 concert was made possible through the courtesy of the Transcription Trust of Musicians Union Local 215, Kingston. In the ensemble are (L-R) Eleanor Diemer, cellist; Jacqueline Baczyński, pianist; and Frances Gould, violinist.

Doing the Right Thing

TEACHING A CHILD HOSTESS' RESPONSIBILITIES

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is five and my friends child is three. When they're visiting, must I make my daughter entertain this child throughout the visit? All the neighbors' children play on our court. If this child doesn't want to play with the other ones, am I obligated to have my child play what she wants? — Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.: The problem is to find a compromise between teaching the child the responsibilities of a hostess and at the same time not imposing on her freedom with a situation not of her own making. If she had wanted to invite the other little girl over to play, she should stay with her and do what her guest wished to do. Since the visit was really arranged for your benefit, it is not fair to demand that she leave her friends to play with a child so much younger than herself. If this were a once-a-year visit from far away, your daughter should be urged to devote herself to the other child for this special occasion. But if it is a frequent occurrence, she should try to get the little girl to join in the neighborhood play, and if that fails, she may be excused from further responsibility.

Gifts for Son's Classmates
Dear Mrs. Post: We are acquainted with our son's girl friend, his roommate, and their parents. When we get together for their graduation, do we give gifts to the other graduates as well as our son? What if they do? Should we have a monetary gift ready just in case? — Mrs. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: You could not be expected to give presents to all of your son's friends, but it is a nice thought to have one for his roommate, his girl friend, and any other classmate to whom he is particularly close, especially if you are friends of their parents.

For other "emergencies" you might have one or two small gifts on hand — something you could use later as a Christmas or birthday gift — rather than money.

Doubles for Coffee
Dear Mrs. Post: If there is only one teaspoon left for the dessert, can you use the same spoon to stir your coffee? — Natalie

Dear Natalie: A separate spoon should always be served with the coffee. If it is not, you have no choice. Clean the spoon as well as you can with your lips, and stir your coffee.

News About 1969 Area Graduates

President's Scholar

Miss Elizabeth Ann Schupp of Kingston has been designated as the President's Scholar at Ulster County Community College for high academic excellence.

She will receive a scholarship from the College President Dr. George B. Erbstein which will go toward her second year's expenses at UCCC next fall.

Miss Schupp received the designation for having the highest cumulative average of a freshman completing the first year at the community college and planning to return for the sophomore year. Her average at the completion of her freshman year was 3.97. She received in her first semester at the college the highest cumulative average a student can achieve 4.0 (straight A's).

Miss Schupp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Schupp, 311 Second Avenue, Kingston. She is majoring in Liberal Arts.

Sandra Horowitz

Miss Sandra R. Horowitz was graduated from the Charles E. Ellis School for Girls in Newtown Square, Pa., at the 37th annual commencement held June 7.

Miss Horowitz served as secretary of the senior yearbook, participated in several clubs including Drama, Dance and Political Discussion. She was a member of the volleyball intramural team and was a library proctor and aide. Miss Horowitz plans to continue her education in September at the School of Education at Northeastern University, Boston, Mass. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Horowitz of 3 Scudder Avenue, Kingston.

Myers Girls

Barbara J. Myers was on the dean's list for the last semester of her sophomore year at State University at Brockport. Her sister Janet was on the Dean's list at State University at Plattsburg. The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Glenford Myers of 64 Elm Street, Saugerties.

Miss Klimchusky received a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting. While in college, she was active in Glee Club, German Club and Business Club and was the layout editor of the Sylvan, college yearbook.

Miss Klimchusky has accepted a position with Travelers Insurance Company.

ny, Hartford, Conn., and plans to take graduate courses at the University of Hartford towards an M. B. A. degree.

Women at Union

Striking down a 175-year tradition, the Board of Trustees of Union College voted recently to make the college completely co-educational with the entering freshman class of September, 1970. Recruitment of the Class of 1974, of about 400 men and 100 women, will begin immediately.

The trustee's projection calls for a rise in the number of women at Union by about 100 annually through 1973-74, while the number of men will be stabilized at this year's level. By September, 1974, the college will have about 2,000 students, about 400 more than were enrolled this past fall. The 400 will be women.

Master Degrees

Thirteen persons who were students at Union College's industrial administration program in Poughkeepsie received Master of Science degrees at commencement exercises Saturday in Schenectady.

Area graduates are: James P. McNamara of Pine Place, Kingston, Donald B. Kiley of New Paltz; Leslie J. Lewis of Poughkeepsie; Raymond P. Oberly of Rhinebeck; and Alan N. Higgins of Saugerties.

Hints from Heloise

Engagement Party List Unlimited

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to invite friends to my engagement party that I just can't afford to invite to my wedding? I feel I want to have good friends at the party, but the relatives must be invited to the wedding first.—Lucy

Dear Lucy: Your engagement party may be as large as you wish. Guests need not take gifts, and have no other obligations other than to offer best wishes and help you celebrate. It is a nice way to make friends who cannot be included at the wedding feel a part of the event.

To make your wedding day the happy, memorable occasion you want it to be, my booklet "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure" is just what you need. To get a copy, send 25 cents in coin to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Dear Heloise: For Father's Day last year, I bought cards for our three-month-old daughter to give to her father and grandfather. Instead of just signing her name to the cards, I thought of a way to make them more personal.

I rubbed washable ink on her foot with a cotton swab and then let her stand on each card, leaving a tiny, dear-to-us footprint.

Sherry Jones

I'll bet all grandmas and grandpas will just love this.

Dear Heloise: Please tell your readers not to risk balancing inverted angel food cakes on a bottle or funnel for cooling.

I use an empty four-ounce strained baby food can, bottom side up. The surface is just a trifle larger than the end of the tube and does not cut into the crusty surface of the cake. The inverted pan rests securely upon it.

I store the can along with the angel food pan in a clean plastic bag. This way it is always handy when I need it.

A Reader

Dear Heloise: When you take ice cream out of the freezer and try to dish it out, use a table fork instead of a spoon or scoop.

The fork will go right through the ice cream and lift it all out easily.

Harvey Bostic Wins Second Herdegen With 144

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

WOODSTOCK

Long hitting Harvey Bostic beat off late challenges by Leon Randall and Dave Blakely here Sunday to capture the 1969 Herdegen Memorial tournament with a 36-hole total of two over par 144.

The victory earned the veteran Wiltwyck Country Club star his second Ulster County amateur championship by a two-stroke margin over runner-up Bill Kaufman, who carded 37-34 to slip past Randall and Blakely into second place with 76-114.

Randall, who soared to a 38 on the last nine, was tied by the onrushing Dan Gaffney at 149 and Blakely settled for a fifth place tie with Brian Smith, who rebounded from an 82 at Wiltwyck to card the tournament's hottest round, 32-36-68, here Sunday.

One Over at Wiltwyck
Bostic carved out a one-over-par 36-37-73 on Wiltwyck's long, heavy layout Saturday to carry a three-stroke lead over Kaufman and Randall to Woodstock. Gaffney was four shots away at 77, but Blakely, UCCC's No. 1 player, remained a strong challenger at 74.

Bostic, Randall and Blakely played head to head in the last threesome at Woodstock.

A horrendous triple-bogey 7th on Woodstock's 10th hole (27) blew Blakely out of contention and he settled for a tie with Smith at 150.

"I had my woods under control most of the way," said Bostic, a solidly built IBM employee who hits a golf ball as far as any golfer in the area. "I found Woodstock's slick greens a little tricky, but the course was in the finest condition I ever saw it."

They went to the 32nd tee with Bostic holding a tenuous one stroke lead (125-126). Randall's drive split the fairway but Bostic's hooked into the light rough on the left side of the fairway.

Both boomed their long approach shots into the left side trap, but Randall moved his ball only a few feet in his first blast, then got out 12 feet from the pin. He was an inch short in his bid for a par and settled for a bogey 6.

Bostic blasted beautifully to within 5 feet, rolled it in for his birdie-4 and regained a three-stroke lead, 128-132. He matched par the rest of the way to nail down the title, oblivious of the fact that Kaufman was moving past Randall and Gaffney was coming up to tie Randall.

Kaufman Fires 34

Kaufman backed up his opening 37 with a one-under par 34 on the back nine, holing birdies on No. 3 and No. 5 to offset a bogey-4 on the last hole.

Gaffney, out in 37, matched par figures coming in with birdies on the first and seventh holes.

Among the other in-the-money finishers, Bill Van Aken was all alone at 152. Andy Jasienowski of Sawyerkill carded 77-77-154. Joe Bostic and Werner Kolln, the two Kingston High stars, shared a tie at 155 and Charles Stauffer, a new Wiltwyck member, had 158.

There was a three-way tie at 159 for the 12th and last spot among David Dean, Woodstock champion, Harold Van Aken and George Cosenza, the Saugerties High School coach.

Bostic recalled that the 5th hole at Woodstock was the turning point in his first Herdegen triumph in 1965.

"Leon and I were battling for the lead that year and I got a break on the 5th hole and went ahead to win."

The incident at the 5th hole this year was this:

Bostic, out in 35 with nine straight pars, retained his 3-stroke lead over the field with a 27-hole total of 108.

Randall also reeled off nine straight pars for a 35 to tie with Blakely (37) at 111. Bill Kaufman was two shots away at 113. Brian Smith and Dan Gaffney were deadlocked at 114.

Out of Bounds Shot

Blakely knocked his tee shot out of bounds on the 28th hole and drew a bloody seven. Randall and Bostic collected par 4's but on the No. 2 (29th) Bostic picked up another shot when Randall was trapped on his approach and took a bogey-5.

Randall unleashed a tremendous drive on the par-four 3rd (30th) and ran down a 10-footer for a birdie-3. Bostic hit the rough with his drive, pitched weakly and missed an 8-footer for his par bid and Randall quickly sliced his deficit in half to two strokes—121—123.

One Stroke Away

Randall moved to within a stroke—his high point for the afternoon on the par-three 4th which he parred while Bostic slipped 5 feet past the cup on a long approach putt and missed it coming back. Blakely, trapped on his drive, also bogeyed the hole.

THE CHAMPION — Harvey Bostic (C) of Wiltwyck Country Club receives silver tray emblematic of the Ulster County Amateur golf title following his victory in the annual Herdegen Memorial tournament. Bostic led the 36-player list with a 2-over-par 144 in weekend play at Wiltwyck and Woodstock. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Moore Loses One-Hitter

CHARLIE MOORE FIRED A BRILLIANT one-hitter Saturday against the Middletown Explorers, only to have the host club come up with four runs, three of them unearned, in the sixth inning to defeat the Braves, 4-2, in a Mid-Hudson Valley Rookie League tilt.

Paul Hughes, all-star athlete from Middletown High, was almost as good as he allowed but three hits while striking out nine Braves to gain the win.

The Braves now stand in second place in the Northern Division with a 4-4 record. The Beacon Astros lead the league at 5-1. In the only other game Saturday the Florida Comets topped the Poughkeepsie Lasers, 8-3.

Sunday's action saw the Astros beat the Lasers, 3-2, Comets over the Cornwall Missiles, 9-0, and the New Windsor Rockets down the Explorers, 9-2.

Moore Sharp

In the Kingston game, Moore was sharp throughout as he set the home club down in order inning after inning in his attempt at a no-hitter. The Braves came up with two runs in the top of the fourth, with Moore and Jerry Hawkins hitting singles and scoring on Mike Derrenbacher's single.

However, it was in the bottom of the sixth that the young pitcher's dream turned into a nightmare.

Moore, who had been sharp most of way, suddenly found himself walking two men. Then Mike Patrick committed two errors at second base and Chuck Weishaupt also erred and Moore gave up his only hit to centerfielder Chuck Smith, allowing the four runs.

The Kingston ace regained his composure, getting the Explorers out and then retiring them in order in the seventh, but the damage had been done.

Hughes Gets Tough

Hughes, on the other hand, weathered the fourth inning storm and got stronger as the game went on, as the Braves' power hitters left men on base in four innings.

Moore's record now stands at 2-3 on the season.

Tuesday night the Poughkeepsie Lasers venture into Dietz Stadium to face the Braves in an 8 p. m. start. Ray Zappone, former New Paltz High School star will face either Mike Kelly, Bob Rathbun or Mickey SaVino from the over-stocked Poughkeepsie pitching staff.

Poughkeepsie had a rough weekend, dropping two tilts in two days. The Lasers are one of the newest entries in the league and have a strong club, but when their pitching goes bad, it goes very bad, thus the 3-3 record and second place tie with Kingston.

Add Powerglide, power disc brakes and whitewalls to this Chevelle.

Subtract $69.00 from last year's price.

You've heard that general rule. To get more you pay more. Let's break it.

Take this '69 Malibu Sport Coupe. With head restraints. Add Powerglide automatic transmission, power disc brakes and whitewall tires. (Wheel covers, too, which haven't changed in price.) Then total. When you compare it with last year's Malibu, equipped the same way, it's priced $69.00* less.

The reason? We've made head restraints standard. And, while the whitewalls went up slightly, we've cut the price on Powerglide and our advanced-design power disc brakes, substantially. Altogether, it's more Chevelle for less money. Nice.

So's this. A standard 200-hp V8 engine. Astro Ventilation and full door-glass styling. A new anti-theft locking device on the steering column helps keep your car yours. A computer-selected suspension gives you a ride so smooth it leaves bumps where they belong. On the road. And it's all on Chevelle. Priced $69.00 less.

You see. You don't have to pay more to get more. And your Chevrolet dealer's proving it right now.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

*Based on manufacturer's suggested retail price, including federal excise tax and suggested dealer new car preparation charge.

Marvelous Metsies Look Like Real Thing

(By Combined Wire Services)

New Mets never die . . . well, hardly ever . . . and a couple of old ones aren't exactly fading away.

Gary Gentry, New York's current pitching prodigy, and Jerry Koosman, its 1968 rookie sensation, hurled the torrid Mets to a 5-1, 1-0 doubleheader sweep over the struggling St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

Tommie Agee, a second-year

Met, and rookie Rod Gaspar also played key roles as the former expansion misfits delighted a Shea Stadium crowd of 55,862—largest in the National League this season—and climbed within 4 1/2 games of Chicago's stumbling East Division leaders.

New York has won 18 of its last 23 starts—including three of four against the defending NL champs.

Gentry, 7-5, spotted the Cardinals a run and two hits in the first inning, then stopped them cold until the ninth, when reliever Cal Koonce came on to get the last two outs, leaving two runners stranded.

Agee drove in a pair of runs as the Mets raked loser Steve Carlton and two successors for 13 singles—three each by Bud Harrelson, Cleon Jones and Jerry Grote.

Koosman scattered seven St. Louis hits and struck out nine in the nightcap on the way to his third shutout. The Mets clipped Mike Torrez for the game's only hit in the seventh, when Harrelson tripled and Agee bounced a double over the head of third baseman Mike Shannon.

Left fielder Gaspar saved Koosman in the eighth with a bullet throw to the plate that nailed Lou Brock trying to score from second on Joe Torre's two-out single.

Koosman, 5-4, has a club record string of 23 consecutive scoreless innings and has yielded just four runs in 60 innings since coming off the disabled list May 24.

"We have the feeling now that nobody can beat us when we take the field; nobody can stand in our way," said the 25-year-old left-hander, a 17-game winner as a rookie but plagued by shoulder trouble early this year.

Koosman left nine St. Louis runners on base in the nightcap. The Mets' Ron Swoboda had stranded as many teammates on the bases in the first game by striking out five straight times . . . to tie a major league record.

Over in the American League, The New York Yankees rallied for two runs in the tenth inning on key singles by rookie Len Boehmer and Ray White Sunday for a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees, who had rallied to tie the game in the ninth, jumped on Gary Roggenbark for the rally with Boehmer driving home the winning run with his first major league hit.

Horace Clark walked to launch the winning tally, was sacrificed to second by Jerry Kenney and held on while Bobby Murcer fanned for the second out. Boehmer, who entered the game in the eighth inning after Joe Pepitone and manager Ralph Houk were ejected, singled Clarke home.

Boehmer, who moved up on the throw, scored on White's single.

The Yankees tied the game in the ninth on singles by White and Gene Michael and a sacrifice fly by Bobby Cox.

The Red Sox led most of the way on successive homers by Rico Petrocelli and Tony Conigliaro, leading off the fourth inning.

Jack Aker picked up his third win for one inning of relief while Roggenbark was charged with his first loss.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland edged Baltimore, 3-2, before losing the second game 6-0, Washington swept Detroit 9-4, 9-5, Chicago shut out California 1-0, Seattle downed Kansas City 5-1 and Minnesota nipped Oakland 4-3 in a 13-inning nightcap after the A's took the opener 7-3.

Over in the National League, Chicago splits with Montreal, winning the first game 7-6, before dropping the second 5-4. Pittsburgh won the opener 6-0 over Philadelphia, but dropped the nightcap 3-2. Los Angeles shut out Cincinnati 5-0, with the second game postponed because of rain. The Braves and the Giants split their doubleheader with the West Coast entry winning the first 5-1, the Braves the second 7-5 and Houston blanked San Diego 2-0.

11-Inning Contest

Legion and Lions Battle to 1-1 Tie

KINGSTON American Legion and Lions Club battled to a 1-1 tie in 11 innings, the longest game of the 1969 Babe Ruth League season.

In other games, Knights of Columbus scored eight runs in the fourth to trounce V.F.W., 12-6, and routed Miron Lumber, 23-12, with 12 runs in the fourth.

V.F.W. romped over Miron's, 18-4, in another game.

The Miron-KC and VFW-Miron contests were incorrectly reported for publication.

The Legion and Lions played eight scoreless innings before each scored single tallies in the ninth. The contest was halted by agreement after 11 innings.

Nick Scott pitched the first 10 innings for the Legion, yielding 3 hits and fanning 13. He also had three hits, including a Thirteen-year-old Kevin Jones pitched six innings of shutout ball for the Lions, who scored their run on an error with the bases loaded after Brian Sheilighner and Tim O'Donnell singled and Dan Brown drew a walk. O'Donnell and John Carter of the Legion each had two singles.

Charles Barton and George Fatum collected three hits apiece in the Knights' 23-2 win over Miron.

Ferraro BA Dips Over Weekend

ROCHESTER Mike Ferraro's average dipped slightly from .320 to .316 as the result of a two-for-eight performance over the weekend.

but the Redwings' winning percentage came up a couple of notches as the Rochester entry of the International League took over sole possession of second place, a scant two games behind the league-leading Louisville.

Ferraro went one-for-four Saturday as his team dumped Toledo, 4-3. Mike managed a one-for-four in Sunday's tilt that saw the Redwings held to four hits, but winning, 2-0.

The Kingston lad's statistics now read 50 hits for 158 at bats, with three doubles, two triples and one home run, for .316. He had been batting .320. Mike also has 20 ribbys.

In Sunday's game with the Mudhens, Fred Beene, Rochester and opposing pitcher Les Cain locked horns in a pitcher's duel, each allowing the other's side four hits. Beene is now 7-3 on the season.

Other action Sunday had Richmond shutting out Columbus 4-0, Louisville nipping Tidewater 4-3 and Syracuse splitting a doubleheader with Buffalo, winning the first tilt 1-0, and then doing a reverse to drop the second to the Bisons by the same score.

Carrier goes round hiding in the bushes.

Carrier's round condensing unit goes into hiding, every year. The round one sends the hot air up, not out to the sides like the square units. Shrubs can grow up around it. You can forget it. Carrier's round one is better than the boxes for other good reasons. The coil is curved to give you a larger cooling space area. You have more efficient, more compact, more economical air conditioning.

Nevele Holiday Regains Form in Featured Fourth

MONTICELLO Trotting fans at Monticello Raceway Saturday night were treated to a classic battle between six champions in the featured fourth race pace, carrying a purse of $5,500 for the FFA Handicap, when Nevele Holiday, driven by Bob Camper, shook himself out of his last race to record another win in 2:02.1.

Nevele Holiday, the 9-year-old son of Sampson Hanover-Try Out By Tryax, sorely disappointed his backers in his last time out on June 7th when he came in 7th in a field dominated by the phenomenal 3-year-old colt, Kat Byrd.

Nevele Holiday's defeat at the hands of Kat Byrd could be expected, but the fans, two weeks ago hardly expected Ash Battle, retrained by Ralph Andersen, to be driven by his driver and trainer, Ralph Spencer, to trounce him so badly. Previously, Nevele Holiday had chalked up two firsts in succession in better times than Cash Battle.

had recorded his finishes in different contests.

Got His Revenge

However, Saturday, Nevele Holiday more than got his revenge. Racing secretary Phil Tully had assigned the post positions for the six entries, and Cash Battle, this time retrained by Ralph Andersen, was on the outside in the 6 hole. Andersen took him to the front almost immediately and roared him through the quarter in :29.2, the half in 1:00.3 and was still leading when the three-quarter pole was in sight.

It was at that point that Camper began his drive. It was Nevele Holiday that recorded the 1:31.3 for that mark, and from then on it was his race. Cash Battle hung on doggedly around the paddock turn, but had been in contention throughhis previous effort had taken out the pace was third, Clint Galbraith the driver.

The Saturday night double combination at Monticello Raceway was a healthy one—it returned $256.60 for the winning 6 and 7 tickets. Both events were paces, each carrying a purse of $1,350, and the first event was taken by Wagner Hanover, with Richard Manzi in the sulky, who cut the mile in 2:07.2. Wagner Hanover's 1969 record now stands at 1 first, 2 seconds and a third. The surprising element in Saturday's daily double was the victory of Trustworthy Pick in the second race, because he was overlooked by the experienced wagers to pay $33.20, $13.60 and 7.80, despite the fact that he had been in the money four times in seven starts previous.

at Madison Square Garden, March 4, 1968. It was the first fight show in the new Garden and drew a record indoor fight gate of $658,503, paid by 18,096.

Quarry has won five straight since he lost a 15-rounder to Ellis for the WBA title at Oakland, Calif., on April 27, 1968.

Frazier 11-5 Choice Over Quarry

NEW YORK (AP) — Fistic fireworks are expected to explode early tonight when jolting Joe Frazier risks his six-state piece of the world heavyweight title against optimistic Jerry Quarry at Madison Square Garden.

Both are on record as predicting a quick finish of the 15-rounder which will be telecast on closed circuit coast-to-coast with New York blacked out. Starting time is 10:30 p.m., EDT.

Frazier, winner of all 23 of his pro fights including 20 by knockouts, is an 11-5 favorite to repel the challenge of the fast-firing, 24-year-old blond bomber from Bellflower, Calif. Quarry has a 31-2-4 record including 18 knockouts.

"I expect to get him in five rounds," said Quarry, who boasts he can punch faster and harder than the 25-year old champion. "If I lose, they're going to have to carry me out."

"There ain't no way he's gonna go five," said Frazier, a 25-year-old, non-stop puncher of the Hammerin' Henry Armstrong school. "He's gonna get burned earlier than that if he comes after me like he says he will."

The oak-thighed Philadelphian promised he'll "come out smokin'" like he always has. Frazier has no other way of fighting. He comes right after an opponent in a straight line, blasting away with both hands to head, body and arms at a better than 100 punches a round rate.

Neither has been stopped so far.

But with both talking knock-out, a crowd of upwards of 15,000 is expected to pay more than $50,000 at prices ranging from $10 to $100.

With the ancillary receipts, including closed circuit television, thrown in, Frazier can earn from $350,000 to $500,000 and Quarry from $250,000 to $350,000. A princely sum even in these inflationary days for a couple of youngsters who have been fighting pro about four years each.

It will be the fourth title defense within a year for Frazier, now recognized as world champion in Argentina and Mexico as well as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts and Texas.

Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association while Cassius Clay still is hailed as king of them all in some parts of the world.

Frazier, the 1964 Olympic heavyweight king, won partial title recognition by stopping big Buster Mathis in the 11th round at Madison Square Garden, March 4, 1968. It was the first fight show in the new Garden and drew a record indoor fight gate of $658,503, paid by 18,096.

Quarry has won five straight since he lost a 15-rounder to Ellis for the WBA title at Oakland, Calif., on April 27, 1968.

Palmer made a move in a hurry, taking birds on three of the first five holes, turning in 32 and going eight under par for the tournament with a birdie on the 10th.

"He was just two shots back of me at that time," Douglass said, "but I could have bogeyed a couple and come back to him."

and had to face the challenges of Palmer, Archer and Coody in that order.

Douglass' 274 Takes Kemper Golf

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The galleries were roaring, the noise from the vast army sweeping in waves over the course, as Arnold Palmer made his charge.

"Everybody was excited," Dale Douglass said. "I could hear them."

"I got pretty excited, too. But for a different reason."

But the excitement wasn't enough to shake his game and the placid, articulate Douglass cruised in with a final 67 and a four-stroke victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

He had a 274 total, 14 under par for the 7,255-yard, par-72 Quail Hollow Country Club course, and claimed the biggest check of his nine-year-old pro career, $30,000.

Charles Coody, who had a course record matching 65 and was one of several to challenge Douglass in the sweltering heat, finished second at 278.

South African Gary Player, with a 69, and Australian Bruce Crampton, with a 70, tied at 279.

Palmer, the defending champion, made a run at it with a final 66 but finished at 280.

Lee Trevino had a 74 for 284. U.S. Open champion Orville Moody had a 70 for 286 and PGA champ Julius Boros, 76 for 286.

Douglass, a 6-foot-2, 155-pound stringbean from Denver, started the day with a one stroke lead and had to face the challenges of Palmer, Archer and Coody in that order.

Palmer made a move in a hurry, taking birds on three of the first five holes, turning in 32 and going eight under par for the tournament with a birdie on the 10th.

Dear Abby

'Pen Pal' Trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: George (made up name) and I have been married for 27 years. We have six children. Two are married and we have grandchildren, too. Abby, I really love this man with all my heart.

Recently an old girl friend of George's found his name in a telephone directory and she wrote him a letter, asking him to reply. Well, he CALLED HER UP, long distance, and they talked for 20 minutes.

George told her he was happily married and had six children. She told George she had married an alcoholic, who deserted her four years ago.

Well, I thought that was that, but in a couple of days here comes a letter from this woman. She told my husband her whole life history since they had last seen each other, which was 30 years ago, and she closed by saying, "Let's keep in touch."

Now, Abby, I can't see any good in this "keeping in touch" with her, can you? George says there is no harm in reviving an old friendship, but I know they were more than friends.

Don't you think George is just looking for trouble? Please put your answer in the paper as he reads you faithfully and respects your advice.

DEAR WIFE: George is not looking for "trouble" — he's looking for excitement. But trouble is probably what he will find. Tell him you love him, you're jealous, and if he "keeps in touch" with this old flame from 30 years back, he'll break your heart.

DEAR ABBY: No offense intended! I am one of your greatest fans. However, this letter is prompted by the one you received and answered.

about singers and musicians at weddings not being part of the wedding party.

Come on, Abby, I have played piano and organ at weddings for several years and have always been included in the wedding party. To leave out the musicians in my book is bad taste, especially if these services are performed at no cost to the couple. I have never charged for my services and I am a professional. I consider it a personal favor for those getting married.

Yours, sincerely,
JOHN BROWN
DEAR JOHN: When I answered that letter, I had in mind only musicians and vocalists who were paid to perform a service, not those who did it as a favor to the couple. So I'll take 20 lashes with a vocal cord and a swat on the derriere with an old swell pedal.

DEAR ABBY: I have just started to date, and I have a problem which is common to most girls my age. It seems that every time I go out with a boy, if I let him kiss me on the first date I never see him again. But then if I DON'T let him kiss me, I never see him again, either. So how is a girl supposed to know what to do?

JUST WONDERING
DEAR JUST: She can assume that whether she kisses a boy or not on the first date has nothing to do with whether she ever sees him again. And go to work on other possible causes for being a one-date-dolly.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LITTLE BOY PEEP": Better tell him to buy THREE rings. An engagement ring, a wedding ring, and a TEETHING ring. Lotsa luck.

Everybody has a problem.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CAN'T ANSWER: (Q.) My boy friend and I are deeply in love. We may marry someday and I don't want to give myself to him until then. But he keeps asking me if I'm a virgin and I can't answer.

The reason is that I went too far with a previous boy friend. I don't care anything about that boy now, but I cannot change what happened.

I don't have the heart to tell the truth to the boy I love. I'm sure he believes I'm not a virgin but hopes I am. He's one honest. Please help me.—P. in Philadelphia.

(A.) A boy should not ask a girl the question your boy friend asks you. If he persists, however, tell him that whatever happened before you met him in no way influences your love for him.

Tell him you realize you've made mistakes (I hope you do realize it), but that with him everything is different.

I'm sorry your friend's questioning is so painful to you, but am reassured to hear again that boys still prefer wholesome girls who save the best for the real love in their lives.

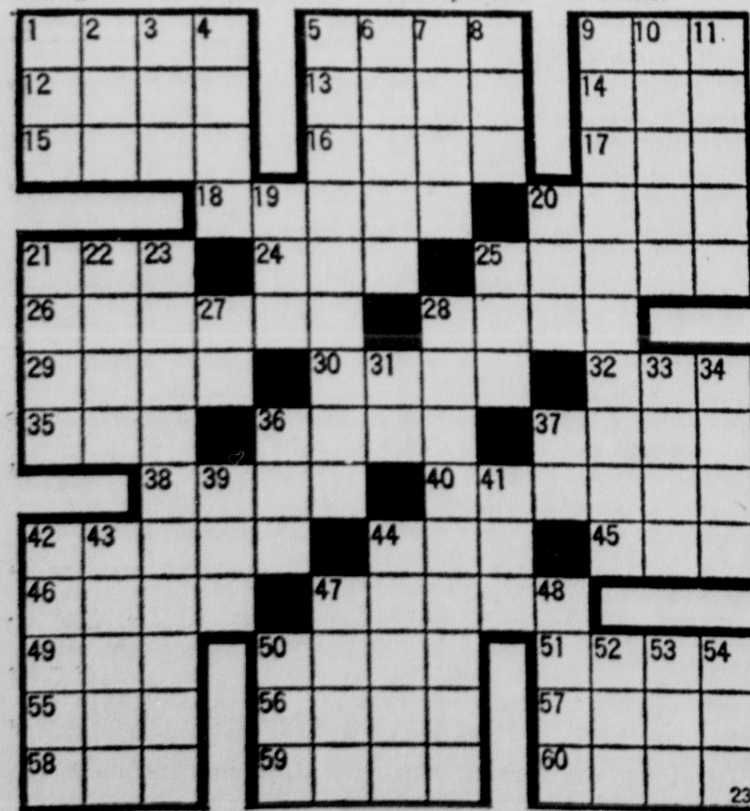

SIX-FOOTER (Q.) I read in your column about two girls in Pennsylvania being five feet eight inches tall. They were 16. I'm just 13 and already six feet tall. My sister is the same at 14. I just wrote to tell girls not to feel sorry for themselves when they're only five eight.—Tall Texan.

(A.) Only a tall woman with good posture can wear the most elegant and sophisticated fashions. She has to begin working early to have good carriage and a slim figure. Thirteen is not too early. That's a hint, a challenge, to you.

Horoscope

By SIDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY JUNE 24, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You deal with public. Efforts are evaluated. People come to you. Your opinion is sought. Express yourself in careful manner. Key is to be kind, diplomatic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Light touch favored. Not wise to push or force issues. You get advice from many sides. Remember promises. Obligations to associates. Be true to your own principles.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Break through red tape. Your creative resources should be utilized. One who is timid expresses doubt. Be considerate but don't back down — you are on right track.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your kind of day. You find way of saving money. Your ideas click. Solid offer is made which could enhance security. Make some changes, but don't veer too far from objective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tonight you settle basic issue. Stick to familiar ground. Be with family, if practical. Financial benefits accrue. If diplomatic and patient, you score definite gain.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are released from obligation. This lightens financial load. Don't be deceived by promises. Realize that some are overly optimistic. A relative may sing the blues — this passes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pay attention to financial, other responsibilities. You have assumed certain commitments. Now you are called upon to fulfill them. Positive gain is indicated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Tonight your lunar cycle moves up. People respond to you in strong, definite manner. You cannot do things halfway. It is all the way — or nothing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You get chance to formulate plans. Being alone tonight works to your benefit. Steer clear of crowds. Crystallize aspirations. What you want is within reach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Tonight you receive favorable word concerning important project. Your abilities, ambitions are spotlighted. You get something of value handed to you on silver platter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Study CAPRICORN message. You gain through written word. Study your paper for special hints. Accent on writing, long-range plans, campaigns.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You find answer to what was a perplexing problem. Key is to dig beneath superficial indications. Your interest in unusual subjects is heightened.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you can successfully utilize original approach. Unorthodox methods succeed. You are one who appreciates the arts. And this stands you in good stead. A new contact paves the road to success.

Bridge

One Team's Meat Another's Poison

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Here's a hand to wind up our discussion of luck in duplicate. It came up in a match between a New York and a Boston team back in 1935. The bidding in the box was that of the Boston North-South pair."

Jim: "I can see what happened to South. He won the second spade, took a club finesse since he was in his own hand, for the first and last time, watched East take the queen of clubs and four spade tricks for down one."

Oswald: "When New York held the North-South cards they were playing a convention known as 'Aces over two bids. South responded two spades, North tried three hearts and South raised to four hearts."

Jim: "Wasn't that bid supposed to show the king of hearts?"

Oswald: "It was or at least North thought so. He jumped to six no-trump. East led the four of spades and North had to scramble for 12 tricks."

Quick Quiz

Q — Did Lord Cornwallis personally surrender his sword to George Washington at Yorktown?

A — No. Brig. Gen. O'Hara represented Cornwallis who was ill. Washington, in turn, was represented by Maj. Gen. Lincoln, who accepted Cornwallis' sword — the token of defeat and surrender — and then returned it.

CBS Plans New Program

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The lone novelist Thomas Wolfe once wrote that America has never really been in, in any profound and essential way, been explored—it has rather been surveyed.

"The first problem of the people who settled in this immense and spatial continent was not to explore it but to lay it out—to find the shortest Television, which caters primarily to the older generation, has begun to explore more and more in the sense that Wolfe meant, but too many programs are still essentially surveys. That is why a broadcast such as the one announced Wednesday by CBS—"A Day in the Life of the United States"—is of more than routine interest. The program, which will be and the network says reporters will be at work recording what is happening from the first light of sunrise to the last ray of sunset, on the island of Kauai, Hawaii."

If the execution is as good as the concept, it should be quite a broadcast. And the network is surely preparing for it in the right frame of mind. For example, Charles Kuralt, who has proven his superior style with a human touch in his "On the Road" segments for the CBS evening news, will be the chief reporter. And the network announcement says the program will attempt to capture, for the future, "Who we really were, what we were really like—those people who put men on the moon."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The White House got its first telephone in 1876, when Rutherford B. Hayes was president, The World Almanac says. In 1963, perhaps Washington's most important connection with the world was installed—the "Hot Line"—a direct and constant teletype link with Moscow. The necessity for it was dramatized in the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when communications failure forced the United States and Russia to broadcast messages publicly.

Mother Knew Him Well

'Confession' Just a Hoax

By MICHAEL WILLARD
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—When he tells the truth, he will be dead. He has never told the truth in his life.

Thus Ernest Paul Sims' mother described Sims when she learned her son had confessed to the murder of two girls near Ann Arbor, Mich.,

and also the slaying of an Oklahoma City taxi driver. After hours of intensive questioning by Nashville police, Sims admitted late Sunday his mother knew him well—the confessions were a hoax. While local authorities agreed Sims apparently was not involved in the slayings, they still planned to give him a lie detector test today. After talking with his four sisters at police station Sunday, Sims recanted the confessions and signed a statement admitting he lied. Sims' questioning had continued throughout the day after Michigan authorities had noted some discrepancies in his statements compared with facts in the slaying of the two girls.

Lt. Ken Reasonover told reporters Sims had admitted it was a hoax. Reasonover said he felt Sims confessed because "he wanted attention and couldn't get it."

Killed in Crash

LYON MOUNTAIN, N. Y. (UPI)—Leonard Sorrell, 23, of Lyon Mountain was killed Sunday evening when the car he was driving left Bradley Pond Road and flipped over near this Clinton County community.

Two passengers in the car were injured, neither seriously. They were Richard Sorrell, 23, and Patrick Lacroix, 29, both of Plattsburgh.

There have been six young women murdered in the Ann Arbor area since 1967.

The Nashville convict, who worked as a groundskeeper on the Eastern Michigan University campus May 5-7, admitted the slayings of Maralynn Skelton, 16, whose body was found March 25 near the University of Michigan campus in Ann Arbor, and Dawn Basom, 13, of Ypsilanti, Mich., whose body was discovered April 16 along a dirt road three miles north of her home.

Sims also admitted the May 17 stabbing death of Eugene Stephens, a 46-year-old Oklahoma city taxi driver.

Officers learned Sims could not have committed the Skelton murder since the girl had been dead a couple of days when her body was found March 25 and Sims was released the same day from the Milan, Mich., correctional institution.

Some Opposition, But . . .

Tax Outlook Good in House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's $9.2 billion tax program, opposed by organized labor and devoid of tax reforms demanded by liberals, comes up for a vote, and probable victory, in the House this week.

The prime part of the plan is an extension of the income tax surcharge one year beyond its scheduled June 30 expiration. But in addition, the package repeals a tax break for business, extends taxes on telephone service and cars, and removes an estimated 5.2 million poor persons from the tax roles.

Knife, Bottle and Havana

Captain Got the Message

MIAMI (AP) — A Spanish-speaking man holding a knife and a bottle marked "explosives" hijacked a jetliner with 89 persons aboard to Cuba. His wife and teen-aged daughter were with him.

The Newark-to-Miami Eastern Airlines DC8 returned safely to Miami Sunday after spending several hours in Havana. The hijacker and his family, who had been issued tickets under the names of "Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Perez," remained in the Cuban capital.

Second Officer David Savage said a bottle labeled "Danger: Explosives" was tied to the hijackers wrist by a string.

"It looked like pink sugar and inside this was a test tube of what looked like methiolate, with wax on top of it," he said.

"It probably was just a diversion, but you don't know what it is, of course."

Stewardess Rose Mary Evans of Atlanta said the man called to her and drew a knife.

"He couldn't speak English but he beckoned me to unlock the door," she said. "He didn't say anything."

The pilot, Capt. Bernard L. Huttain, said the incident occurred just south of Norfolk, Va., and the man in his 50s with a deeply lined face said "Havana, Havana." Huttain added, "I got the message."

"His daughter, who said she was 15, came into the cockpit and acted as interpreter. She was short but attractive, with shoulder-length black hair and brown eyes. She indicated they were from Newark and that she had been in high school," Huttain said after the plane returned to Miami Sunday night. "I gathered the family was having difficulty with our language and adjusting to our cultural differences. The girl wore a mini skirt and was very calm."

"He mentioned the language problem and the daughter said Cuba was their country and they wanted to go back," Huttain said. "About every 15 minutes I talked to the passengers to keep them assured."

"When we were over Miami, I told the man it was his last chance to change his mind, but he said 'Havana!'"

Most of the 78 other passengers aboard the plane did not see the hijacker or his family until they left the plane.

It was the 30th hijacking to Cuba this year, the third in a week.
